'Shots' At Hitler Filling Aluminum Dump

After the first day of house-to-house collection of old aluminum pots and pans for national defense, Mansfield's collection committee found its aluminum dump near Central park filling up. With returns to be made from five wards and communities throughout Richland county, workers were confident that the local drive would be a great success. The caricature of Hitler shown in the picture above with an invitation to "Hit Hitler" seems to grow more perturbed daily at the sight of the added aluminum beneath him. Pots, pans, old percolators, cocktail shakers, sieves, refrigerator trays and even an old washing machine are piled into the dump.

YIELDING TO PRESSURE OF FDR MESSAGE

Welles Declares Unidentified European Nation Next on Hitler List.

ACTION SEEN JULY 28

Senate Expected To Take Up Military Service Problem Before End of Month.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Declaring that Hitler must conquer or encircle the United States to achieve his aims, Gen. John M. Palmer, retired, today urged the senate military affairs committee to back President Roosevelt's proposal to keep draftees, guardsmen and reserves in services for the duration.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON— Congressional opposition to keeping selectees, guardsmen and reservists under arms for the duration was weakening today under President Roosevelt's pressure and new warnings of German threats in Europe and South America.

The senate may begin consideration of the military service problem by July 28.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles revealed information that an unidentified European country was next on the German list after the Soviet union.

Only Sweden, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal on the continent now have any semblance of freedom. Welles' unequivocal statement renewed speculation whether the United States might soon have to make good on Mr. Roosevelt's promise that no Atlantic islands would be permitted to fall into Nazi hands. The Canaries, off Africa, are Spanish and the Azores and Cape Verde islands are Portuguese. They presumably would be occupied by American troops if Germany invaded either country.

Mr. Roosevelt's message to congress urging removal of the 900,000 limit on number of selectees in service at one time and his request for authority to keep all classes of short term soldiers under arms interested Washington most because of its emphatic insistence

Nazi Echo To 'V' Campaign

British sources claim that the "V" for victory campaign now sweeping German dominated countries has the Nazis so worried that they're attempting to destroy its effect by displaying the "V" to designate eventual German victory. This radio photo to show the "V" being painted on railroad equipment in Berlin. In German the word for victory is "Seig."

Nazis Report Big Fires Set Near Kremlin

Russians Assert Most Attackers Kept From Capital, Say 17 Shot Down; Storm Delays Japanese Action Against Indo-China, Reds.

(By United Press)

The Russo-German war entered its second month today with the first big Luftwaffe attack upon Moscow and sweeping assertions by the German high command that Soviet defense lines have been splintered into disconnected segments.

Moscow reports indicated that the Nazi communique might be touched with wishful thinking but there was no doubt that German air power is concentrating upon crushing attacks in the Smolensk-Leningrad-Moscow triangle.

In the Far East, Japan appeared about ready to move into French Indo-China and seemed to be clearing decks for possible later action against Russia but a record-breaking typhoon raked the island empire and may force a delay in military plans.

Two sharply contradictory reports emerged about the Russian situation, both at the front and of the raid on Moscow.

The German acount:

Moscow was bombed heavily by both level-flying and dive-bombers which set big fires in the vicinity of the Kremlin, blasted Red army headquarters (and other government buildings and supply depots. The Luftwaffe pounded the whole Smolensk-Leningrad-Moscow region and railroads running toward the Urals from the Soviet capital. Soviet forces no longer present a connected defense front, have lost unified command and are in the process of annihilation by encircling Nazi troops.

The Russian account:

The Luftwaffe attempted to send 200 planes against the capital but only a few got through and 17 were shot down. The raid lasted 5½ hours but only a few persons were killed and wounded and only slight damage caused, none of it military. One bomb fell in a square opposite the U. S. embassy. For two days German planes have attempted to attack Leningrad without success, losing 19 planes in the effort. Russian forces still hold Smolensk and Novograd Volynsk and have prevented any material change in the fighting lines.

In the Far East Tokyo dispatches indicated with some clarity that Japan proposed to take quick action in French Indo-China, possibly through the medium of a "mutual assistance" pact with the Vichy regime.

The Nazi high command said

JAPS REAFFIRM AXIS ALLIANCE

Foreign Minister Says Pact Remains Basis of Nation's Policy.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—A British radio broadcast picked up by CBS in New York said today that all reports from the Far East "continue to support the belief that big developments are imminent."

(By United Press)

TOKYO—Japan has assured Germany and Italy that its alliance with them remains the basis of its foreign policy and that it will continue to uphold the Axis in spirit and aim, it was disclosed today.

Admiral Teijiro Tokyoda, foreign minister, gave the assurance Saturday, only one day after the new cabinet took office, to Gen. Eugene Ott and Mario Indelli, the German and Italian ambassadors, Koh Ishii, chief government spokesman, said.

Ishii added that Toyoda had not yet even seen Constantin Smetanin, ambassador of the Soviet Union with which Japan has a friendship and neutrality pact only a few months old.

Tokyo newspapers predicted in a new editorial campaign late today that the government would adopt "prompt and active measures" to deal with Japan's three most pressing foreign problems—"Anglo-American encirclement of southern Asia," settlement of the

WIFE JAILED IN WILLARD DEATH

Woman Accused of Slashing Husband With Hunting Knife Following Quarrel.

WILLARD—Mrs. Emma Jean Rothlesberger, 25, was held on an open charge in city jail here today, accused of inflicting fatal stab wounds on her husband, Lewis Rothlesberger, 47.

Rothlesberger died in municipal hospital early today from a stab wound in the abdomen, Dr. A. D. Robertson, Williard physician said. The man was also badly cut about the wrist.

Patrolman Sherbundy said the slaying followed a quarrel after the couple returned home shortly after midnight. Mrs. Rothlesberger, the officer said, picked up a hunting knife and inflicted the fatal wound.

Call On Townships To Join Campaign Protesting AAA

Representation in each of the county's 18 townships was sought today by the farmers' committee appointed to enroll approximately 700 Richland county farmers in the Farmers' Protective association which has been set up to protest the government's wheat penalty program.

Tentative chairmen for each township were selected by the committee last night at a meeting held at the home of Earl W. Logan, Washington township. Walter Haner, a committee member, said today.

As soon as a permanent group is obtained the organization will move forward in its action against the government's right to limit the sale or use of wheat in excess to quotas set under the Agricultural Adjustment administration, Haner indicated.

The temporary Richland county organization was effected last Wednesday night by 200 farmers at a meeting held at the courthouse. Albert Ammenter was ap-

City Challenges Marion On Aluminum Pot, Pan Collection

Encouraged by yesterday's response to the house-to-house collection of old aluminum pots and pans from Mansfielders for national defense, Mansfield's collection committee today sent a challenge to the city of Marion to better Mansfield's record.

James F. Carrigan, city chairman, sent a wire to Mayor Russell Snare of Marion offering to bet an old aluminum tea-kettle against a dishpan that Mansfield would collect more aluminum than Marion in the drive.

Carrigan announced that the collection from the First ward yesterday and the Second ward this morning had been very satisfactory. He asked persons missed in both wards to call the Volunteers of America to have its trucks call for their contributions.

Boy Scouts manned city and township trucks for the second day today as they continued to collect any scrap aluminum available in the Second ward. Tomorrow, the drive will move into the Third war.

The aluminum dump at the western entrance to Central park received a large amount of the scrap metal yesterday as hundreds of pots and pans and other aluminum articles, including even

TYPHOON SWEEPS ACROSS JAPAN

Storm Misses Tokyo After Rains Inundate 12,000 Homes.

TOKYO —(U.P.)— A roaring typhoon, preceded by 10 days of torrential rains that inundated more than 12,000 homes in the Tokyo area and took at least 35 lives, swerved and passed south of capital tonight, barely missing Japan's most populous centers.

The typhoon was reported to have struck Shizuoka, 95 miles southeast of Tokyo and about midway between the Tokyo-Yokahama and Kobe-Osaka areas, and was expected to spend its fury in the Japan sea.

Heavy damage, caused by the rains, however, was reported in the Tokyo area, where floods and landslides disrupted all train service.

School Board Pares Budget, Adopts Figure Of $712,507

Joining in the move to reduce local government and school costs, the Mansfield board of education last night approved a budget request for $712,507 for the city school operation and debt retirement next year, a reduction of $3,453 from this year's costs.

Reduction in the operating budget is $315, most of the $3,453 decrease representing a drop in the bond retirement and interest needs.

Actual amount sought for operating expenses next year is $604,049 as compared with estimated expenses totaling $604,364 for the present school year.

The board's budget committee, headed by Harold A. Bruce, slashed $6,351 from the amount requested for principals; clerks' and teachers' salaries for next year.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said the decrease is due primarily to the resignation of older top-salary teachers and the employment of instructors who must qualify by experience for maximum salaries. The board has hired

ASKS CITY HELP

Lexington Wants To Purchase Water From Mansfield.

Threatened by a possible water shortage, the village of Lexington turned today to Mansfield as a possible answer to its problem.

In a letter to Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, Mayor J. Richard Gore inquired into the possibility of Lexington being sold water by the city of Mansfield. The request will be turned over to city council.

Gore wrote that the village's wells are rapidly failing and that the community would have to find some new source of supply for water. Unless Mansfield sells the water to Lexington, the village would have to dig new wells.

Mayor Gore said that the village only used 4,900,000 gallons in the past year. Mansfield pumps at least 3,500,000 gallons daily except for the summer months when it has been pumping nearly 5,000,000. Lexington's demand would only increase the city's pumping an average of 100,000 gallons per day.

JAC Announces Plan For Fund-Raising Drive; Structures Already Going Up.

With a building construction program at municipal airport under way to provide additional facilities for a military pilot training program, the Junior Association of Commerce today announced plans for conducting a campaign for funds to improve runways at the port.

At the same time, the U. S. army air corps was studying possibilities of using the field for basing planes and fliers in the government's rapidly expanding air force for home defense.

Work has already been started on the construction of a new flight operations office by James R. Harrington, operator of the Harrington Air service and manager of the port.

The building, which is being constructed at the cost of $3,500, will provide a pilot training classroom to accommodate 35 students; general offices and a lounge.

Harrington said the structure will be ready for occupancy within the next few weeks.

Meanwhile, plans for construction of a $5,000 barracks to house student pilots enrolled in the government's pilot training program have been sent to city council for approval.

The proposed building of rustic design will be built to accommodate 24 students. It will include dormitory, lounge, office, dining room and kitchen.

Harrington said the building

Third Term For LaGuardia Given Enthusiastic OK

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia's announcement that he would seek a third term was received with enthusiasm today by the forces which helped him oust Tammany Hall in 1933.

La Guardia said he believed his "non-political, non-partisan and efficient" administration had encouraged those who were trying to remove "political machines" in other cities.

It was believed he would get the Republican nomination, as well as those of the American Labor and Fusion parties, and the support of many New Deal Independents and Democrats.

If he defeats William O'Dwyer, Kings county district attorney who is assured of the Democratic nomination, La Guardia will extend his third term to 1945—longer than any in the history of New York.

Nazis Claim They Are Winning 'V' Propaganda Fight

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Continentals are becoming "V" conscious and the German press explained that "V" is for "Viktoria" — victory—for Germany.

The "V" originally appeared on the continent in the low countries, Norway and Denmark where it was chalked on walls, fences and show windows, Germans asserted. Sky-writers left smokey "V's." Now the idea has spread over Germany and much of the occupied area.

An authorized German spokesman contended today that Germany had won "the battle of V." Asked who started the battle, the British or the Germans, the spokesman declared:

"We are not interested in who started it but in the fact that we have won out."

In Paris a big "V" flew from the Eiffel tower while handbills and posters bearing the letter appeared in the city with German slogans for "victory on all fronts."

Many German newspapers carried a big "V" in red or blue on the masthead. In Bohemia huge "V'S" were smeared under the headlight

SEES APPROVAL

Chairman Says House Group To OK Draft Property Bill.

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., predicted today that the house military affairs committee will approve promptly a "draft property" bill passed by the senate.

May said that his committee will begin consideration of the measure tomorrow or Thursday. The bill would authorize the president to requisition essential defense materials which are not otherwise available to the government. Property owners would be paid a "reasonable" price.

The senate approved the bill yesterday after Sen. A. B. Chandler, D., Ky., floor manager for the measure, said that its greatest effect would be as a check against "exorbitant" prices on defense materials.

Germans Demand Removal Of Bolivian Envoy As Reprisal

BERLIN—The German government, as reprisal, demanded today that the Bolivian charge d'affairs in Berlin leave Germany within three days and also protested sharply to La Paz against the Bolivian action in declaring the German minister persona non grata.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Was Never Brighter.

BUSINESS men and nitery operators, who once looked forward to the World's fair, murmur thanks that it's not open this year to take business away . . . Clubs open on Broadway, instead of close; the Hurricane again, the Moulin Rouge, the big Turf restaurant with its giant neon signs. . . . Summer vacationers congest Times Square and the defense dollars finally get around to the box office . . . Hollywood slows down production and movie stars flock to town in great numbers and with great bankrolls . . . The dance halls are gay with sailors and their girls in summer dresses . . . Jean Sablon plays to standing room at the Versailles—the first time it ever happened in the Summer.

Dorothy Kilgallen

That's Broadway now!

Two streets, both of ancient construction, surpass Broadway in length: the 350-mile-long Appian Way from Rome to Brundusium, and England's Watling Street.

But give me Broadway any old time, for those two streets haven't a single orange juice stand

Washington Irving once lived at 16 Broadway. My teachers told me he was a great man with a pen, but the Irving I like to write about is the one who eats daily at Lindy's on Broadway—Irving Berlin of the magic music pen . . . The Great White Way had its inception early in the 19th century when every seventh house had an extended pole in front of it, with a swinging lantern— aglow only on moonless nights Give me the silly ducks of Douglas Leigh, the Merlin of the Mazdas, or the foolish fish on the great Wrigley sign.

As president, George Washington once lived at the McComb mansion at 39 Broadway and the annual rental was $2,500 a year. He met the best people of his day in that house. Today, anyone can rent the site of the defunct Cotton club for about $80,000 annually, open a big night club, and meet a lot of pretty girls.

Aunt Margaret Mann owned the most famous hotel of Broadway's 1830's. An actor named Tyrone Power used to stop . ere regularly and was quite popular with the girls. This year, at 50th and Broadway, the girls fluttered over the image of a ferocious matador on the screen—Tyrone Power in "Blood and Sand" . . . Lily Langtry, the Jersey Lily, made her American debut at Abbey's Park Theater at 22nd and Broadway. Today, you can see a line of Langtry figures at the Gaiety burlesque house at 46th and Broadway—but with fewer petticoats than Lily wore.

John Jacob Astor built the Astor House in 1836—the finest and largest hotel in the country. The tariff was one dollar a day, and that included meals. Andrew Jackson, Sam Houston, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln and Charles Dickens were among the registered signers.

Well, now, one thing you can get for a dollar at the Astor is a good mint julep—but Jimmy "Schnozzola" Durante is a permanent guest!

Traffic was so dangerous at the end of the Civil war that the Low Bridge was built for transients across Broadway at Fulton Street —you must remember that vehicles were rushing along at a speed of about eight miles per hour, and things were getting dangerous.

But the bridge had to be torn down because the Broadwayites preferred to risk their lives rather than climb steps and for that I love them dearly. The other day at 90th and Broadway, a cab driver was arrested for cruising at a speed of less than 20 miles per hour. Sweet progress, what interesting arrests committed in thy name!

The Broadway biographers record such screwballs of pre-Civil war days on Broadway as "Cow Bell Hattie"—she carried and rang a cow bell to warn horse and buggy daredevils that she was crossing the street; Drummer Fabian, a cadaverous old gent who beat out the hour on a drum at what is now Union Square; and Indian Melbourne, a freed slave who claimed that he was the Messiah of the Indians. But we'll bet they neever got as much publicity or as many autographs, quarters and five-dollar bills as the current Broadway characters known as Louise the Louse, Commodore Dutch and Broadway Rose.

In 1801 the Legislature appointed a committee to lay out plans for streets and avenues above Houston Street. The committee finished its report years later, but was almost laughed out of the Legislature. The daffy dreamers had made plans to include streets for New York City as far north as 150th Street is today!

That was Broadway then.

I like it now. The movie houses are crowded, "Claudia" and "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Panama Hattie" play to standees, chorines stride around in slacks, the soda shoppes are air-conditioned.

The stage door fans are flashing pictures of celebrities with cameras that cost many times more than a pencil and autograph book. Ethel Merman's understudy can afford a new car . . . Summer stock companies dig deep into the supply of unemployed, undernourished actors, college kids ride home from the night spots in taxis, men in uniform have tanned cheeks and a looking-for-fun look; the gags in Sardi's sound funnier than they've sounded in a long time.

The Gay White Way is really gay there nights. Broadway is flourishing—not just four-flushing.

SEEK TO END STRIKING AT TOLEDO PLANT

Conciliators and City Officials Join Move as Police Escort CIO Workers.

(By Associated Press)

Federal conciliators and city officials pressed today for settlement of a jurisdictional dispute at Toledo's Textileather corporation plant, where 81 CIO employes were escorted from the idle factory last night through rows of AFL pickets.

The controversy began last week when rival textile unions demanded the right to be named bargaining agents.

Two score sheriff's deputies and police officers stood guard while the CIO employes were brought out after working their regular shift. They had remained inside the plant without food for six and a half hours rather than face an estimated 100 AFL workers who marched to the factory from a mass meeting. There was no disorder.

A walkout of 185 employes of the Claycraft company at Columbus was called by the AFL United Brick and Clay Workers union, seeking increased wages and a closed shop, according to John C. Getreu, president of the Columbus Federation of Labor.

Getreu said he didn't know exactly what the union was demanding. C. F. Tefft, general manager, claimed the men walked out "without giving the whole story of their demands."

Tefft said the company paid a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour, while most of the workers earned 60 to 70 cents hourly under piece work rates.

Meanwhile, Harry E. Mayfield, president of the steel workers organizing committee local at the Columbus plant of the Timken Roller Bearing company, said the union had authorized an executive committee to call a strike if necessary to enforce protests against the alleged discharge of five women employes for union activities

At San Francisco a coastwide strike vote of its 6,000 members was ordered today by the Sailors Union of the Pacific (AFL) in protest, leaders said, against alleged signing of foreign crews at low wages to operate Danish ships recently taken over by the government.

Harry Lundeberg head of the SUP, said the referendum "on whether or not to tie up the entire west coast shipping" will be taken secretly in four successive meetings in Pacific coast ports This means the vote will not be completed for a month.

The display includes samples of the earliest painted cards made in France in 1840 and the types used by the Japanese, Chinese and Hindu peoples, as well as those from numerous European nations. The first discovery soon unearthed a rival librarian who had brought along an even larger supply of eight of the "funnies," Mrs. Gimbel said.

RFC APPROVES 425 MILLION FOR WAR HELP

Loan, OK'd By FDR, Will Pay For Materials Bought Before Lease-Lend Passage.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States government, through the reconstruction finance corporation, today authorized a loan of $425,000,000 to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to pay for American war materials ordered before enactment of the lease-lend bill.

Approved by President Roosevelt and Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones, the momentous financial transaction will permit the British to acquire much-needed dollar exchange without liquidation of their American investments at forced sale. The RFC announced the loan at 5 a. m. (EST). (Noon British time.)

As a guarantee for repayment of this huge credit, which will be turned over at the rate of $100,000,000 a month, the British put up as collateral some $500,000,000 worth of American securities and insurance stocks.

The RFC announced the loan will be repaid over a 15-year period and will bear interest at three per cent per annum. The maturity of the loan may be extended another five years if two-thirds of the principal has been repaid at the end of 15 years.

To repay the loan, the British government will turn over to the RFC the annual earnings of 41 American branches of British insurance companies. These branches have earned approximately $36,000,000 a year for the past five years.

The RFC estimated that these 41 branches have approximately $200,000,000 in cash and U. S. government security above reserves necessary to meet obligations to their policy-holders.

"This loan is made under specific authority granted the RFC by congress in an act approved by the president June 10, 1941, for the purpose of providing the British with dollar exchange without having to sell their securities and investments at forced sale," the RFC explained.

British collateral for the loan is made up of $205,000,000 worth of so-called "Blue-chip" securities listed on the New York stock exchange; unlisted stocks of American corporations valued at $115,000,000, and $180,000,000 of capital stock of 41 American insurance companies owned by British interests.

BOARD STUDIES BIDS OF THREE

Tax Companies Submit Prices For Transportation of Handicapped Pupils.

Bids submitted by three Mansfield taxi companies on the transportation of handicapped pupils to the city's special schools were opened last night by the board of education, but the contract award was withheld pending the investigation of equipment of the bidders and their liability insurance.

The board, however, sold a $37,492 state school foundation refunding note to the Ohio National bank, Columbus, on its low bid of one per cent interest and offer of a $5 premium.

There were seven bidders on the note.

Sold for a two-year period, the note is the only one remaining of several issued by the schools in 1937 when the state was unable to make its quarterly allocations of funds to schools under the foundation program. The state has since assumed responsibility for payment of the notes and the interest charges.

Apparent low bidder for the taxi contract was the Service Taxi company which asked 35 cents per pupil for each round trip within the city limits and 10 cents additional per mile per pupil outside the city.

The DeLuxe Cab company, holder of the contract for several years, asked 40 cents per round trip within the city and 10 cents additional per mile outside the city limits.

The Safety Cab company asked 40 cents per round trip in the city and 20 cents additional per mile outside the city The rates are for a one-year contract.

A list of textbooks and school supplies for the next school term was approved by the board. Supt. W. L. Miller said it contains only two minor changes in first and second grade books.

BOARD EMPLOYS MORE WORKERS, COMPLETES ITS SCHOOL STAFFS

With the hiring of two teachers and four secretaries and the re-employment of the Senior and junior high schools cafeteria workers last night the Mansfield board of education completed the city schools' staffs for the 1941-42 term.

Employed to fill vacancies in the teaching staffs were Miss Elizabetta Ruth of Bowling Green and Miss Mary A. Dean of Xenia. Miss Ruth will teach in junior high school and Miss Dean will be an art instructor at the Bowman school. Both have had teaching experience.

14 Delinquent In Filing Requests For '42 Revenues

Although Monday was the deadline for filing 1942 operating budget requests with the Richland county budget commission, only 27 of the 41 townships, municipalities, and school districts had filed their requests today, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Since there is no penalty for late filing, the auditor said there was nothing for the commission to do but urge the officials in the taxing districts to get their tentative budgets to the commission this week.

"We are receiving several in every mail now and most of them should be in the commission's hands this week," Wolfe said.

The auditor, who is a member of the budget commission, said the 41 requests will be studied and returned to the taxing districts by Sept. 1 with the new tax rates and recommendations for reductions if any are needed.

The budget commission tells the districts how much money they will have available for next year, and they must cut their appropriations to meet their tax funds.

PRINTING FIRM NAMED IN SUIT

Workman Seeks Pay, Claiming Overtime's Due Him.

A suit for $1,344 overtime pay and $1,000 attorney fees had been filed in Richland county common pleas court today by Arthur Kohler, 217 South Franklin avenue, against the Mansfield Printing company, his former employer.

Kohler contends the firm owes him $672.27 overtime pay for the period from Dec. 17, 1939, to July 10, 1941. The federal labor act permits the plaintiff in an action to sue for double the amount of overtime pay he seeks to compensate.

Kohler contends in his petition that he either was not paid at all for overtime work or he was not paid at the time-and-a-half scale.

Kohler's attorneys, for whom he seeks the $1,000 fee, are C. F. Creedman and H. M. Rust.

Detective Says Youth Resisted Arrest at Y. M. C. A.

HAMILTON —(AP)— Nineteen-year-old Joseph Arvin was shot and killed early today in an elevator of the Hamilton Y. M. C. A., when, Detective Herbert Crowthers said, he resisted arrest as a suspect in a recent series of robberies.

The shooting followed a holdup by three youths of the cafe-bar in the Disabled American Veterans' home in which an undetermined sum of money was obtained

Crowthers said he followed the youth into an automatic elevator of the Y., and that during a scuffle, he knocked a gun from Arvin's hands. Arvin "kept swinging" with his fists and, Crowthers said, was shot when he disregarded warnings to quiet down.

GERMANS BOMB MOSCOW IN FIVE HOUR ATTACK

Nazis Report Huge Fires Set Near Kremlin, Reds Say 17 Planes Bagged.

that the Moscow attack had started huge fires near the Kremlin and the Moscow river which weaves through the center of the Russian capital and that damage was caused to Red army headquarters and government buildings.

The attack was called a "reprisal" for Soviet air attacks on Helsinki and Bucharest—the customary Nazi propaganda technique. Most of the worst German attacks on Britain have been officially characterized as "reprisals" for some act or other by the British.

The Nazi high command also entered an even more sweeping claim than any before concerning the disintegration of Russian defenses. No unified front line or central Russian command is any longer in existence, the Germans claimed, maintaining that their forces are now engaged in mopping up scattered and isolated Russian detachments.

Moscow sharply challenged this report.

The air attack diverted attention from front-line fighting between Russia and Germany. Neither Berlin nor Moscow indicated any appreciable changes in the front positions.

The Germans claimed that the smash by air at the Red capital was one phase of a terrific assault by the Luftwaffe on the entire triangle from Smolensk to Leningrad to Moscow.

In that area, it was claimed, German planes wrecked railroad lines, military barracks and pounded troop concentrations in an obvious attempt to break up Soviet military power behind the firing lines to prevent reinforcement of front-line Red divisions.

The raid on Moscow was said in Berlin to have included the dropping of hundreds of heavy high explosive bombs and tens of thousands of incendiaries which, it was claimed, started big fires throughout the Soviet capital. Twelve hits by heavy bombs were said to have been observed near the Kremlin, massive nerve center of the Russian state, and 20 large fires spotted, German airmen said, east of the Kremlin. Railroads running east toward the Urals from Moscow were heavily attacked.

The Russian accounts said that several fires were started by incendiary bombs in central Moscow and that some casualties had occurred but insisted that little damage resulted. Some 17 German raiders were reported brought down in the attack which started at 10 o'clock last night and continued until 3:30 this morning.

One bomb was dropped in Manege Square, directly in front of the U. S. embassy.

It was reported in Moscow that the German air force for two days has been attempting to attack Leningrad. It was said 19 German planes have been brought down in their attempted raids with a loss of four Russian machines.

On the front lines the Russians reported that their lines appeared to be holding well in the frequently mentioned Pskov, Polotsk-Nevel, and Novograd Volynsk sectors, protecting Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev.

The Russian communique named no new towns and indicated that German attempts to break through in these regions have failed.

The Germans had little more to say about front line fighting. They claimed that the German army is concentrating at the moment in cleaning up encircled Soviet troops and is not pressing its advance so strongly.

A Nazi report said that large numbers of "Communists and Jews" had been executed in Yugoslavia, as possible indication of pan-Slavic demonstrations in this strongly pro-Russian Balkan state.

A.P. Reporter Calls Moscow Raid Mild

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW —(AP)— The German air force tried last night to burn out Moscow as it burned out parts of London, but it failed.

From sunset to dawn I watched a squad of Russian home guards toss incendiary bombs off the roofs and put out fires.

The raid over, life surged back through the city in the early morning as though it were noon, when thousands take their midday stroll.

The sirens whined just as the setting sun cast a glow in the sky. Then an ominous voice came over the loudspeakers warning everyone to go to their shelters.

I went to the ground floor apartment of my building which is headquarters of the house committee.

An 18-year-old boy who had been watching the roof, soon came into the room with his bare head soaking wet, and his red shirt open at the throat, rubbing his fireproof gloves.

He said that an incendiary bomb had landed on the roof, but that he threw it into the courtyard.

Small bombs dropped all along the street, which is in a quiet residential quarter far from central and industrial quarters. But only one house was burned. The occupants dragged out their belongings into the courtyard.

As the raid continued through the night, watchers on the roofs replaced one another in relays. The automatic telephone continued to function throughout the raid, and the workers kept in constant touch with other nearby headquarters.

The drone of planes faded gradually as dawn spread in the sky.

Daylight showed that what had seemed in darkness to have been a withering attack, had been, in fact, a comparatively harmless raid.

an old washing machine, were dumped in the fenced enclosure.

Aluminum gathered from communities throughout the county were due to begin arriving tomorrow, Carrigan announced. The city chairman said that he was conferring with County Agent George B. Ganyard, chairman of the drive in the county, and that it was expected that the first county aluminum would be tossed into the dump tomorrow afternoon.

Both Carrigan and Ganyard were confident today that the drive would be a big success.

Plans have been completed for the motion picture show Thursday at 10 a. m. at the Ritz theater when persons carrying aluminum contributions will be admitted free. Baseball fans will also be admitted to the Friday night game of the Lima Pandas and Mansfield Braves for aluminum donations.

Although the aluminum collected will not be used for building aircraft or other war machinery for national defense, national officials have ordered that an equal amount of virgin aluminum will be released principally for aircraft purposes.

The aluminum collected nationally will be used for other manufacturing purposes which ordinarily would use the virgin aluminum. Manufacturers getting the collected aluminum will pay the government the maximum price for it on priority orders. Money paid by the manufacturers will be used by the government for defense needs.

In Columbus, the first day's yield revealed pots, pans, huge roasters from restaurants and hotels, cocktail shakers, radiator grills, pistons, bicycle frames, radio condensers, fan blades and refrigerator trays. Total weight of the collection was 215 pounds.

At Cincinnati, citizens tossed discarded coffee pots and pans into a fenced area in downtown Fountain Square. A watch company donated 15,000 aluminum watch cases.

At Cleveland, Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton donated 24 pieces of kitchenware and a dairy swapped an ice cream cone for each utensil turned in by children.

In industrial Mahoning county, teams representing the county and city competed for the most metal in Youngstown and canvassed prospects for collections later in the week.

The pro-quota farmers have asked Dale Williams, a member of the Ohio Agricultural Adjustment Administration committee, to address them.

Foes Yield To Pressure of Roosevelt Speech and New Warnings.

upon the immediacy of Germany's threat to South America. He did not ask repeal of the prohibition against sending selectees and guardsmen outside the western hemisphere.

There is every indication of misgiving here regarding German intentions and potentialities in South America. Mr. Roosevelt was not overstating administration alarm when he said that "the United States and the rest of the Americas are definitely imperiled in their national interests.

"We have definite responsibility to every country in the western hemisphere," he continued, "to aid each and every one of them against attack from without the hemisphere."

Active here is speculation whether an Nazi putsch conducted by Germans already in South America against one of those governments but without more than moral support from Germany would be an "attack from without." The week-end revealed a putsch-that-failed in Bolivia, source of much of our tin. There also have been hints here that Germany fomented border clashes between Peru and Ecuador.

The emphatic insistance of Mr. Roosevelt and Welles that the United States stood on the letter and spirit of its commitment to Latin American nations suggests the anxiety with which officials observe conditions to the south. They likewise are disturbed by what they regard as Spanish efforts, led by Generalissimo Francisco Franco, to create disunity in the western hemisphere.

All of these factors tend to second Mr. Roosevelt's motion for a bigger army. Continued Soviet Union reverses would add much to the force of the arguments, also, and all indications here are that the best informed persons believe that the Red troops must fall back, surely if slowly.

Chairman Andrew J. May (D., Ky.) of the house military affairs committee, said he would propose a congressional declaration of "national peril" to empower the president to keep the men under arms. He also introduced war department-sponsored legislation toward the same end, but inclines now to the declaration method.

of locomotives and in Prague the principal street was renamed Victoria.

The German radio carried out the "Viktoria" campaign by playing the introductory four notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. The Morse code signal for the letter was frequently tapped out.

The British launched a major radio campaign beamed at occupied countries during the week-end to harry the German occupiers with a "V" for British victory campaign. The methods—including the introductory four notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, the tapping out of the Morse code signal for the letter V—follow the same pattern as the Germans report in their campaign.

In London some champions of the "V" for victory campaign began to suspect today that it was petering out and one newspaper columnist referred to it as "baby business."

Hannan Swaffer, writing in the Daily Herald, said "V also stands for vacillation."

"Abroad the V sign may have effects on public morale," he said. But at home the V sign is just a baby business . . . What we really want is a minister of production, a plan run by a mind."

"Notices are served upon persons participating in such schemes whose names come to the attention of the post office department requiring them to show cause why fraud orders should not be issued against them. Such orders forbid the delivery of any mail to the persons named therein."

Huron County Prosecutor Herbert R. Freeman declined to say what charge would be placed against the woman pending a conference with Willard officials.

Sherbundy said the slaying occurred in the frame dwelling occupied by the couple at 620 Pleasant avenue. He said he had been called to the home by one of the seven roomers who stay at the Rothlesberger home.

The couple was married Sept. 7, 1938. Each had been previously wed.

Mrs. Rothlesberger was a native of Kentucky and had only recently moved to Willard. Rothlesberger had lived in this vicinity for a number of years and was employed as a laborer at the Plumbrook Ordnance plant, south of Sandusky.

Freeman said Rothlesberger had a long police record and had served prison terms in federal and state penitentiaries.

The committee will ask the county budget commission for a total of $408,009 for salaries next year as compared with $414,360 this year.

The amount sought for the purchase of textbooks and school supplies was boosted $2,702 to take care of anticipated heavy replacements of worn-out property during the year, Bruce said. The cost of new textbooks for the year was set at $6,000 as compared with $3,782 this year. The board furnishes textbooks for pupils.

Also included in the budget request was an increase of $1,350 in the amount needed for building repairs and $1,300 more for replacement of other school equipment.

The committee asked nothing for the purchase of land next year. A total of $2,000 was set up in this year's fund.

Debt retirement and interest requirements for the coming year were set at $108,458 as compared with $110,957 in 1941.

had information that Germany was planning new steps of aggression against the remaining independent countries of Europe.

LA PAZ, Bolivia —(AP)— With the departure of German Minister Ernst Wendler for Antofagasta, Chile, arranged for today the Bolivian government had only loose ends to pull together in its investigation of a purported Nazi conspiracy to overthrow President Enrique Penaranda.

Arrest of several high-ranking Bolivian military officers, a German citizen and several civilians in Cochabamba province was reported to Penaranda last night by Defense Minister Gen. Miguel Candia. The German seized was Herman Schroth, former Lloyd Aereo Boliviano manager, Gen. Candia said.

A German legation spokesman said Wendler, his request for proof that he was involved in the alleged plot denied, would go to Antofagasta without waiting for instructions from Berlin.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Was Never Brighter.

BUSINESS men and nitery operators, who once looked forward to the World's fair, murmur thanks that it's not open this year to take business away . . . Clubs open on Broadway, instead of close; the Hurricane again, the Moulin Rouge, the big Turf restaurant with its giant neon signs. . . . Summer vacationers congest Times Square and the defense dollars finally get around to the box office. . . . Hollywood slows down production and movie stars flock to town in great numbers and with great bankrolls . . . The dance halls are gay with sailors and their girls in summer dresses . . . Jean Sablon plays to standing room at the Versailles—the first time it ever happened in the Summer.

Dorothy Kilgallen

That's Broadway now!

Two streets, both of ancient construction, surpass Broadway in length: the 350-mile-long Appian Way from Rome to Brundusium, and England's Watling Street.

But give me Broadway any old time, for those two streets haven't a single orange juice stand

Washington Irving once lived at 16 Broadway. My teachers told me he was a great man with a pen, but the Irving I like to write about is the one who eats daily at Lindy's on Broadway—Irving Berlin of the magic music pen . . . The Great White Way had its inception early in the 19th century when every seventh house had an extended pole in front of it, with a swinging lantern— aglow only on moonless nights. Give me the silly ducks of Douglas Leigh, the Merlin of the Mazdas; or the foolish fish on the great Wrigley sign.

As president, George Washington once lived at the McComb mansion at 39 Broadway and the annual rental was $2,500 a year. He met the best people of his day in that house. Today, anyone can rent the site of the defunct Cotton club for about $30,000 annually, open a big night club, and meet a lot of pretty girls.

Aunt Margaret Mann owned the most famous hotel of Broadway's 1830's. An actor named Tyrone Power used to stop there regularly and was quite popular with the girls. This year, at 50th and Broadway, the girls fluttered over the image of a ferocious matador on the screen—Tyrone Power in "Blood and Sand" . . . Lily Langtry, the Jersey Lily, made her American debut at Abbey's Park Theater at 22nd and Broadway. Today, you can see a line of Langtry figures at the Gaiety burlesque house at 46th and Broadway—but with fewer petticoats than Lily wore.

John Jacob Astor built the Astor House in 1836—the finest and largest hotel in the country. The tariff was one dollar a day, and that included meals. Andrew Jackson, Sam Houston, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln and Charles Dickens were among the registered signers.

Well, now, one thing you can get for a dollar at the Astor is a good mint julep—but Jimmy "Schnozzola" Durante is a permanent guest!

Traffic was so dangerous at the end of the Civil war that the Low Bridge was built for transients across Broadway at Fulton Street —you must remember that vehicles were rushing along at a speed of about eight miles per hour, and things were getting dangerous.

But the bridge had to be torn down because the Broadwayites preferred to risk their lives rather than climb steps and for that I love them dearly. The other day at 90th and Broadway, a cab driver was arrested for cruising at a speed of less than 20 miles per hour. Sweet progress, what interesting arrests committed in thy name!

The Broadway biographers record such screwballs of pre-Civil war days on Broadway as "Cow Bell Hattie"—she carried and rang a cow bell to warn horse and buggy daredevils that she was crossing the street; Drummer Fabian, a cadaverous old gent who beat out the hour on a drum at what is now Union Square; and Indian Melbourne, a freed slave who claimed that he was the Messiah of the Indians. But we'll bet they neever got as much poblicity or as many autographs, quarters and five-dollar bills as the current Broadway characters known as Louise the Louse, Commodore Dutch and Broadway Rose.

In 1801 the Legislature appointed a committee to lay out plans for streets and avenues above Houston Street. The committee finished its report years later, but was almost laughed out of the Legislature. The daffy dreamers had made plans to include streets for New York City as far north as 150th Street is today!

That was Broadway then.

I like it now. The movie houses are crowded, "Claudia" and "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Panama Hattie" play to standees, chorines stride around in slacks, the soda shoppes are air-conditioned.

The stage door fans are flashing pictures of celebrities with cameras that cost many times more than a pencil and autograph book; Ethel Merman's understudy can afford a new car . . . Summer stock companies dig deep into the supply of unemployed, undernourished actors, college kids ride home from the night spots in taxis, men in uniform have tanned cheeks and a looking-for-fun look; the gags in Sardi's sound funnier than they've sounded in a long time.

The Gay White Way is really gay there nights. Broadway is flourishing—not just four-flushing.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Custer's last stand won't be his last by any means—the general is to be in three places at once these next few weeks. Errol Flynn does him in "They Died With Their Boots On," Gary Cooper in "Seventh Cavalry," and he's also a prominent figure in "Badlands of Dakota," the Miriam Hopkins-Brod Crawford film. Custer-fanciers can take their pick . . .

Hollywood is where they do things up right. Like engagements. Brenda Marshall and William Holden are really engaged now, diamond and all. The other announcement, months back, was a sort of preview—in connection with a Marshall movie preview—and lacked only on little item to make it official, the consent of the parties most nearly concerned . . .

There's one double-Bill in Hollywood that ought to get kind words from exhibitors: the new producing team of Bill Thomas and Bill Pine. They're the boys behind the recent air films starring Richard Arlen, latest of which is "Forced Landing." They don't have colossal budgets, so the exhibitor doesn't have to mortgage his theater to give a show, but the films do have those movie fundamentals, pace and action. "Forced Landing" has a dilly of an air duel, with the heavy's plane firing machine guns, the hero's unarmed except for a couple of kegs of iron spikes. It's Eva Gabor's Hollywood debut, she being the lissome blonde from Hungary . . .

The role Humphrey Bogart plays in "The Maltese Falcon" is the same that George Raft turned down, same being a role that calls for acting . . .

There's a double bed in "Wild Geese Calling," and there was a scene in which Joan Bennett and Henry Fonda, as man and wife, were to be asleep in it. The movie code administration frowns on double bed scenes, prefers twin beds—not yet evolved at the period concerned.

Director John Brahm's solution: the scene stayed in, so did the bed, but only one of the players was in it at a time . . .

SEEK TO END STRIKING AT TOLEDO PLANT

Conciliators and City Officials Join Move as Police Escort CIO Workers.

(By Associated Press)

Federal conciliators and city officials pressed today for settlement of a jurisdictional dispute at Toledo's Textileather corporation plant, where 81 CIO employes were escorted from the idle factory last night through rows of AFL pickets.

The controversy began last week when rival textile unions demanded the right to be named bargaining agents.

Two score sheriff's deputies and police officers stood guard while the CIO employes were brought out after working their regular shift. They had remained inside the plant without food for six and a half hours rather than face an estimated 100 AFL workers who marched to the factory from a mass meeting. There was no disorder.

A walkout of 185 employes of the Claycraft company at Columbus was called by the AFL United Brick and Clay Workers union seeking increased wages and a closed shop, according to John C. Getreu, president of the Columbus Federation of Labor.

Getreu said he didn't know exactly what the union was demanding. C. F. Tefft, general manager, claimed the men walked out "without giving the whole story of their demands."

Tefft said the company paid a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour, while most of the workers earned 60 to 70 cents hourly under piece work rates.

Meanwhile, Harry E. Mayfield, president of the steel workers organizing committee local at the Columbus plant of the Timken Roller Bearing company, said the union had authorized an executive committee to call a strike if necessary to enforce protests against the alleged discharge of five women employes for union activities.

At San Francisco a coastwide strike vote of its 6,000 members was ordered today by the Sailors Union of the Pacific (AFL) in protest, leaders said, against alleged signing of foreign crews at low wages to operate Danish ships recently taken over by the government.

Harry Lundeberg, head of the SUP, said the referendum "on whether or not to tie up the entire west coast shipping" will be taken secretly in four successive meetings in Pacific coast ports. This means the vote will not be completed for a month.

PRINTING FIRM NAMED IN SUIT

Workman Seeks Pay, Claiming Overtime's Due Him.

A suit for $1,344 overtime pay and $1,000 attorney fees had been filed in Richland county common pleas court today by Arthur Kohler, 217 South Franklin avenue, against the Mansfield Printing company, his former employer.

Kohler contends the firm owes him $672.27 overtime pay for the period from Dec. 17, 1939, to July 10, 1941. The federal labor act permits the plaintiff in an action to sue for double the amount of overtime pay he seeks to compensate.

Kohler contends in his petition that he either was not paid at all for overtime work or he was not paid at the time-and-a-half scale.

Kohler's attorneys, for whom he seeks the $1,000 fee, are C. F. Creedman and H. M. Rust.

BOARD STUDIES BIDS OF THREE

Tax Companies Submit Prices For Transportation of Handicapped Pupils.

Bids submitted by three Mansfield taxi companies on the transportation of handicapped pupils to the city's special schools were opened last night by the board of education, but the contract award was withheld pending the investigation of equipment of the bidders and their liability insurance.

The board, however, sold a $37,492 state school foundation refunding note to the Ohio National bank, Columbus, on its low bid of one per cent interest and offer of a $5 premium.

There were seven bidders on the note.

Sold for a two-year period, the note is the only one remaining of several issued by the schools in 1937 when the state was unable to make its quarterly allocations of funds to schools under the foundation program. The state has since assumed responsibility for payment of the notes and the interest charges.

Apparent low bidder for the taxi contract was the Service Taxi company which asked 35 cents per pupil for each round trip within the city limits and 10 cents additional per mile per pupil outside the city.

The DeLuxe Cab company, holder of the contract for several years, asked 40 cents per round trip within the city and 10 cents additional per mile outside the city limits.

The Safety Cab company asked 40 cents per round trip in the city and 20 cents additional per mile outside the city. The rates are for a one-year contract.

A list of textbooks and school supplies for the next school term was approved by the board. Supt. W. L. Miller said it contains only two minor changes in first and second grade books.

SUSPECT SHOT IN ELEVATOR

Detective Says Youth Resisted Arrest at Y. M. C. A.

HAMILTON —(AP)— Nineteen-year-old Joseph Arvin was shot and killed early today in an elevator of the Hamilton Y. M. C. A., when Detective Herbert Crowthers said, he resisted arrest as a suspect in a recent series of robberies.

The shooting followed a holdup by three youths of the cafe-bar in the Disabled American Veterans' home in which an undetermined sum of money was obtained.

Crowthers said he followed the youth into an automatic elevator of the Y., and that during a scuffle, he knocked a gun from Arvin's hands. Arvin "kept swinging" with his fists and, Crowthers said, was shot when he disregarded warnings to quiet down.

2 ARRESTED ON STOP SIGN COUNT

State highway patrolmen arrested two motorists yesterday on charges of failing to stop for stop signs.

William H. Heinlen, Willard, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs by Mayor W. R. Morris in Shelby. State patrolmen said he failed to stop at the intersection of Bowman street road and Route 96. Raymond Bricker of near Shelby was killed at that intersection, a week ago.

Foster Fink, Loudonville R. D. 2, pleaded guilty and was fined $2 by S. P. Kopp, justice of the peace in Lakeville. Patrolmen said he failed to stop at the intersection of State Route 179 and Route 3.

RFC APPROVES 425 MILLION FOR WAR HELP

Loan, OK'd By FDR, Will Pay For Materials Bought Before Lease-Lend Passage.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States government, through the reconstruction finance corporation, today authorized a loan of $425,000,000 to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to pay for American war materials ordered before enactment of the lease-lend bill.

Approved by President Roosevelt and Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones, the momentous financial transaction will permit the British to acquire much-needed dollar exchange without liquidation of their American investments at forced sale. The RFC announced the loan at 5 a. m. (EST). (Noon British time.)

As a guarantee for repayment of this huge credit, which will be turned over at the rate of $100,000,000 a month, the British put up as collateral some $500,000,000 worth of American securities and insurance stocks.

The RFC announced the loan will be repaid over a 15-year period and will bear interest at three per cent per annum. The maturity of the loan may be extended another five years if two-thirds of the principal has been repaid at the end of 15 years.

To repay the loan, the British government will turn over to the RFC the annual earnings of 41 American branches of British insurance companies. These branches have earned approximately $36,000,000 a year for the past five years.

The RFC estimated that these 41 branches have approximately $200,000,000 in cash and U. S. government security above reserves necessary to meet obligations to their policy-holders.

"This loan is made under specific authority granted the RFC by congress in an act approved by the president June 10, 1941, for the purpose of providing the British with dollar exchange without having to sell their securities and investments at forced sale," the RFC explained.

British collateral for the loan is made up of $205,000,000 worth of so-called "Blue-chip" securities listed on the New York stock exchange; unlisted stocks of American corporations valued at $115,000,000, and $180,000,000 of capital stock of 41 American insurance companies owned by British interests.

14 Delinquent In Filing Requests For '42 Revenues

Although Monday was the deadline for filing 1942 operating budget requests with the Richland county budget commission, only 27 of the 41 townships, municipalities, and school districts had filed their requests today, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Since there is no penalty for late filing, the auditor said there was nothing for the commission to do but urge the officials in the taxing districts to get their tentative budgets to the commission this week.

"We are receiving several in every mail now and most of them should be in the commission's hands this week," Wolfe said.

The auditor, who is a member of the budget commission, said the 41 requests will be studied and returned to the taxing districts by Sept. 1 with the new tax rates and recommendations for reductions if any are needed.

The budget commission tells the districts how much money they will have available for next year, and they must cut their appropriations to meet their tax funds.

GERMANS BOMB MOSCOW IN FIVE HOUR ATTACK

Nazis Report Huge Fires Set Near Kremlin, Reds Say 17 Planes Bagged.

that the Moscow attack had started huge fires near the Kremlin and the Moscow river which weaves through the center of the Russian capital and that damage was caused to Red army headquarters and government buildings.

The attack was called a "reprisal" for Soviet air attacks on Helsinki and Bucharest—the customary Nazi propaganda technique. Most of the worst German attacks on Britain have been officially characterized as "reprisals" for some act or other by the British.

The Nazi high command also entered an even more sweeping claim than any before concerning the disintegration of Russian defenses. No unified front line or central Russian command is any longer in existence, the Germans claimed, maintaining that their forces are now engaged in mopping up scattered and isolated Russian detachments.

Moscow sharply challenged this report.

The air attack diverted attention from front-line fighting between Russia and Germany. Neither Berlin nor Moscow indicated any appreciable changes in the front positions.

The Germans claimed that the smash by air at the Red capital was one phase of a terrific assault by the Luftwaffe on the entire triangle from Smolensk to Leningrad to Moscow.

In that area, it was claimed, German planes wrecked railroad lines, military barracks and pounded troop concentrations in an obvious attempt to break up Soviet military power behind the firing lines to prevent reinforcement of front-line Red divisions.

The raid on Moscow was said in Berlin to have included the dropping of hundreds of heavy high explosive bombs and tens of thousands of incendiaries which, it was claimed, started big fires throughout the Soviet capital. Twelve hits by heavy bombs were said to have been observed near the Kremlin, massive nerve center of the Russian state, and 20 large fires spotted, German airmen said, east of the Kremlin. Railroads running east toward the Urals from Moscow were heavily attacked.

The Russian accounts said that several fires were started by incendiary bombs in central Moscow and that some casualties had occurred but insisted that little damage resulted. Some 17 German raiders were reported brought down in the attack which started at 10 o'clock last night and continued until 3:30 this morning.

One bomb was dropped in Manege Square, directly in front of the U. S. embassy.

It was reported in Moscow that the German air force for two days has been attempting to attack Leningrad. It was said 19 German planes have been brought down in their attempted raids with a loss of four Russian machines.

On the front lines the Russians reported that their lines appeared to be holding well in the frequently mentioned Pskov, Polotsk-Nevel, and Novograd Volynsk sectors, protecting Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev.

The Russian communique named no new towns and indicated that German attempts to break through in these regions have failed.

The Germans had little more to say about front line fighting. They claimed that the German army is concentrating at the moment in cleaning up encircled Soviet troops and is not pressing its advance so strongly.

A Nazi report said that large numbers of "Communists and Jews" had been executed in Yugoslavia, as possible indication of pan-Slavic demonstrations in this strongly pro-Russian Balkan state.

A.P. Reporter Calls Moscow Raid Mild

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW —(AP)— The German air force tried last night to burn out Moscow as it burned out parts of London, but it failed.

From sunset to dawn I watched a squad of Russian home guards toss incendiary bombs off the roofs and put out fires.

The raid over, life surged back through the city in the early morning as though it were noon, when thousands take their midday stroll.

The sirens whined just as the setting sun cast a glow in the sky. Then an ominous voice came over the loudspeakers warning everyone to go to their shelters.

I went to the ground floor apartment of my building which is headquarters of the house committee.

An 18-year-old boy who had been watching the roof, soon came into the room with his bare head soaking wet, and his red shirt open at the throat, rubbing his fireproof gloves.

He said that an incendiary bomb had landed on the roof, but that he threw it into the courtyard.

Small bombs dropped all along the street, which is in a quiet residential quarter far from central and industrial quarters. But only one house was burned. The occupants dragged out their belongings into the courtyard.

As the raid continued through the night, watchers on the roofs replaced one another in relays. The automatic telephone continued to function throughout the raid, and the workers kept in constant touch with other nearby headquarters.

The drone of planes faded gradually as dawn spread in the sky.

Daylight showed that what had seemed in darkness to have been a withering attack, had been, in fact, a comparatively harmless raid.

an old washing machine, were dumped in the fenced enclosure.

Aluminum gathered from communities throughout the county were due to begin arriving tomorrow, Carrigan announced. The city chairman said that he was conferring with County Agent George B. Ganyard, chairman of the drive in the county, and that it was expected that the first county aluminum would be tossed into the dump tomorrow afternoon.

Both Carrigan and Ganyard were confident today that the drive would be a big success.

Plans have been completed for the motion picture show Thursday at 10 a. m. at the Ritz theater when persons carrying aluminum contributions will be admitted free. Baseball fans will also be admitted to the Friday night game of the Lima Pandas and Mansfield Braves for aluminum donations.

Although the aluminum collected will not be used for building aircraft or other war machinery for national defense, national officials have ordered that an equal amount of virgin aluminum will be released principally for aircraft purposes.

The aluminum collected nationally will be used for other manufacturing purposes which ordinarily would use the virgin aluminum. Manufacturers getting the collected aluminum will pay the government the maximum price for it on priority orders. Money paid by the manufacturers will be used by the government for defense needs.

In Columbus, the first day's yield revealed pots, pans, huge roasters from restaurants and hotels, cocktail shakers, radiator grills, pistons, bicycle frames, radio condensers, fan blades and refrigerator trays. Total weight of the collection was 215 pounds.

At Cincinnati, citizens tossed discarded coffee pots and pans into a fenced area in downtown Fountain Square. A watch company donated 15,000 aluminum watch cases.

At Cleveland, Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton donated 24 pieces of kitchenware and a dairy swapped an ice cream cone for each utensil turned in by children.

In industrial Mahoning county, teams representing the county and city competed for the most metal in Youngstown and canvassed prospects for collections later in the week.

Others named on the organizing committee were Lee Shafer, Christ Reining, Earl Logan and W. A. Pfeifer, all of Washington township, Walter Haner and E. S. Nail of Mansfield.

Meanwhile as protest moves are held in Richland, Morrow and Crawford counties, a meeting of Sandusky county farmers has been called for Friday night to "protest the protest" of another bloc of Sandusky county farmers against imposition of federal wheat marketing quotas.

The pro-quota farmers have asked Dale Williams, a member of the Ohio Agricultural Adjustment Administration committee, to address them.

upon the immediacy of Germany's threat to South America. He did not ask repeal of the prohibition against sending selectees and guardsmen outside the western hemisphere.

There is every indication of misgiving here regarding German intentions and potentialities in South America. Mr. Roosevelt was not overstating administration alarm when he said that "the United States and the rest of the Americas are definitely imperiled in their national interests.

"We have definite responsibility to every country in the western hemisphere," he continued, "to aid each and every one of them against attack from without the hemisphere."

Active here is speculation whether a Nazi putsch conducted by Germans already in South America against one of those governments but without more than moral support from Germany would be an "attack from without." The week-end revealed a putsch-that-failed in Bolivia, source of much of our tin. There also have been hints here that Germany fomented border clashes between Peru and Ecuador.

The emphatic insistance of Mr. Roosevelt and Welles that the United States stood on the letter and spirit of its commitment to Latin American nations suggests the anxiety with which officials observe conditions to the south. They likewise are disturbed by what they regard as Spanish efforts, led by Generalissimo Francisco Franco, to create disunity in the western hemisphere.

All of these factors tend to second Mr. Roosevelt's motion for a bigger army. Continued Soviet Union reverses would add much to the force of the arguments, also, and all indications here are that the best informed persons believe that the Red troops must fall back, surely if slowly.

Chairman Andrew J. May (D., Ky.) of the house military affairs committee, said he would propose a congressional declaration of "national peril" to empower the president to keep the men under arms. He also introduced war department-sponsored legislation toward the same end, but inclines now to the declaration method.

The German radio carried out the "Viktoria" campaign by playing the introductory four notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. The Morse code signal for the letter was frequently tapped out.

The British launched a major radio campaign beamed at occupied countries during the week-end to harry the German occupiers with a "V" for British victory" campaign. The methods—including the introductory four notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, the tapping out of the Morse code signal for the letter V—follow the same pattern as the Germans report in their campaign.

In London some champions of the "V" for victory campaign began to suspect today that it was petering out and one newspaper columnist referred to it as "baby business."

Hannan Swaffer, writing in the Daily Herald, said "V also stands for vacillation."

"Abroad the V sign may have effects on public morale," he said. But at home the V sign is just a baby business . . . What we really want is a minister of production, a plan run by a mind."

Post Office Department Warns of Defense Stamp Scheme.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The post office department warned the nation today that the mails are being flooded with so-called "endless chain schemes" soliciting defense savings stamps, and that people who participate in the schemes may have fraud orders issued against them.

"Patrons of the various post offices depositing in the mails matter relating to schemes of this nature," said Calvin W. Hassel, acting solicitor of the post office department, "should be warned that the sending of such matter through the mails is a violation of the postal fraud and lottery statutes.

"Notices are served upon persons participating in such schemes whose names come to the attention of the post office department requiring them to show cause why fraud orders should not be issued against them. Such orders forbid the delivery of any mail to the persons named therein."

Huron County Prosecutor Herbert E. Freeman declined to say what charge would be placed against the woman pending a conference with Willard officials.

Sherbundy said the slaying occurred in the frame dwelling occupied by the couple at 620 Pleasant avenue. He said he had been called to the home by one of the seven roomers who stay at the Rothlesberger home.

The couple was married Sept. 7, 1938. Each had been previously wed.

Mrs. Rothlesberger was a native of Kentucky and had only recently moved to Willard. Rothlesberger had lived in this vicinity for a number of years and was employed as a laborer at the Plumbrook Ordnance plant, south of Sandusky.

Freeman said Rothlesberger had a long police record and had served prison terms in federal and state penitentiaries.

Rothlesberger's body was removed to the Fink funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

LA PAZ, Bolivia —(AP)— With the departure of German Minister Ernst Wendler for Antofagasta, Chile, arranged for today the Bolivian government had only loose ends to pull together in its investigation of a purported Nazi conspiracy to overthrow President Enrique Penaranda.

Arrest of several high-ranking Bolivian military officers, a German citizen and several civilians in Cochabamba province was reported to Penaranda last night by Defense Minister Gen. Miguel Candia. The German seized was Herman Schroth, former Lloyd Aereo Boliviano manager, Gen. Candia said.

A German legation spokesman said Wendler, his request for proof that he was involved in the alleged plot denied, would go to Antofagasta without waiting for instructions from Berlin.

The committee will ask the county budget commission for a total of $408,009 for salaries next year as compared with $414,360 this year.

The amount sought for the purchase of textbooks and school supplies was boosted $2,702 to take care of anticipated heavy replacements of worn-out property during the year, Bruce said. The cost of new textbooks for the year was set at $6,000 as compared with $3,782 this year. The board furnishes textbooks for pupils.

Also included in the budget request was an increase of $1,350 in the amount needed for building repairs and $1,300 more for replacement of other school equipment.

The committee asked nothing for the purchase of land next year. A total of $2,000 was set up in this year's fund.

Debt retirement and interest requirements for the coming year were set at $108,458 as compared with $110,957 in 1941.

Recognizing National Emergency

AS PRESIDENT of the United States, and as commander in chief of the nation's military forces, Franklin D. Roosevelt asks congress to acknowledge existence of a national emergency and to take action to maintain the army at effective strength.

It is the belief of the president, as expressed in yesterday's message to congress, that the present international situation is "far more grave" than it was a year ago, and that the issue of Nazi domination is steadily being brought closer to this hemisphere.

While specifically intended to emphasize the importance of extending trainee service beyond the one year originally specified, the president's message also carries a warning to the American people that present dangers are much greater than many of them have appeared to realize.

Speaking of the international situation, in the light of recent developments, the president said: "It is so grave, in my opinion, AND IN THE OPINION OF ALL WHO ARE CONVERSANT WITH THE FACTS, that the army should be maintained in effective strength, and without diminution of its effective numbers, in a complete state of readiness . . . it should not suffer any form of disorganization or disintegration."

Accepting the majority preference that the United States should "keep out of war," and believing this to also be the sincere desire of President Roosevelt, the questions remain as to whether this can be done, and how it can be done.

War has not been the desire of other countries upon which it has been forced by the Axis powers, and lack of preparedness has been the chief weakness of defense against aggression.

It has become the adopted policy of the United States that aid to Britain, and to all other countries combatting the Axis powers, is a part of our own defensive program.

It is equally logical that adequate manpower must be developed and maintained in this country to meet future needs as they arise.

Unless there is to be repudiation of the leadership of President Roosevelt, and a turn to such leadership as is represented by Senator Burton K. Wheeler and Charles A. Lindbergh, congress has no alternative to the action that the president urges.

Aluminum 'Shower' for Defense

AS IS their custom, Mansfield and Richland county people are making interested response to the call for contribution of old aluminum utensils needed to augment the insufficient national supply of this metal.

It has been announced that there is national requirement for more aluminum than existing facilities are producing and it is hoped that donations of used aluminum ware will bridge the gap until production can be increased.

Assurance is given that no individuals, groups or corporations will derive any profit from this national aluminum "shower" and that all proceeds will be used for civilian defense.

Aluminum is an essential in airplane construction and in other vital defense items. While one, two, or a half dozen pieces of household aluminum ware may seem to be of little importance, the accumulated contributions of a city and county, added to those of all other cities, towns and counties in the country, will make a tremendously large total.

This is the week for collection of all used aluminum that can be spared by households in Mansfield and vicinity. This gives opportunity for a small patriotic service in which many people can join.

Liquor Board Regulations

ACTION by the state liquor board to ban pinball slot machines from beer and liquor sales places appears to be no more than designation of such machines as "gambling devices," instead of the "games of skill" under which they have innocently masqueraded.

A regulation of the state liquor board says, in quite clear English, that: "No person authorized to sell beer, intoxicating liquors, or alcohol in Ohio shall have, harbor, keep, exhibit, possess or employ, or allow to be kept, exhibited or used in, upon or about the premises of the permit holder, any device, machine or apparatus WHICH MAY OR CAN BE USED FOR GAMING OR WAGERING."

It may appear rather naive, therefore, for Chief of Police Bates to say that "no request was made by the liquor board for the removal of punchboards, baseball lotteries or similar boards of chance," as the state liquor board would probably be amazed to discover that any permit holders have been violating clearly stated regulations.

Railroads Planning Ahead

RAILROADS of the United States, which have done a splendid job of handling the unprecedented volume of freight created by the defense program, are looking forward to the peak load next October and are confident that they will have enough serviceable freight cars to handle it when it comes.

By fall the roads will have among their rolling stock 195,000 new cars or cars that have been completely rebuilt since the war started in Europe. Looking forward to 1942, the carriers are planning to add 120,000 cars to the supply for next year's traffic.

For almost a year the roads have been delivering an average of 5,000 carloads of defense material every day to 140 widely separated government defense plants. camps, and projects. Railroad executives claim that not a single day has been lost on account of failure of railroad transportation.

Railroad executives know the needs of commerce and are ready to meet them, no matter how heavy they become. Nothing has been overlooked. Tracks are stronger and more durable than they were during the World war. Terminals are more adequate. Signals do more to keep trains moving. All-steel cars stay out of the shops longer and on the move more. Locomotives are more powerful, faster, and more efficient.

Hauling freight is going to be a big task in the next year, but the railroads of the nation appear to be ready for it.

If Pittsburgh is no longer to be known as "the smoky city" its chamber of commerce should be digging up an appropriate substitute title.

Tatting becomes a manly art as Walter Mueller, a Des Moines furrier, finishes a big American flag in that mode.

Advises Payless Job

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW MUCH experience have you had? Only your high school business course? Sorry, we can't use anyone without experience."

We've all heard that stock reply, and the wail of protest which Young America gives in answer:

"BUT HOW CAN WE GET EXPERIENCE IF NO ONE LETS US START?"

Sounds like a reasonable question, doesn't it? And it certainly supplies many a youngster with an elegant excuse for loafing around and being sorry for himself. Recently I had a letter from 19-year-old Frances Downey of 659 Madrid St., San Francisco, Calif., with a challenge to her own generation.

"IF YOU REALLY WANT EXPERIENCE, YOU CAN FIND IT—AND PLENTY!" says Frances. "NO YOUNG PERSON NEED GO JOBLESS."

Here is her letter:

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"We've all heard how difficult it is for a young, inexperienced person to find employment. But, when there are countless business men who must do all their own work because they cannot afford to hire help, why should these young people be jobless?

"That was my reasoning when I accepted an apprenticeship that fifty other girls had refused, one that offered hard work and no pay! My employer often took more time in explaining a task than he would have taken to do it himself. Yet he was patient and thorough and I soon was a real help to him.

"Now that I know enough of the work I'll soon be working on a commission basis and if I fail, my time still will not be wasted. For I've learned more in my small office than I'd learn in years in a big concern, more than a business school could possibly teach me. My experience should enable me to secure a salaried position, if necessary.

"WHAT DOES YOUNG AMERICA THINK OF THE IDEA? Should we accept no-pay positions for the benefit of the experience and training we would gain? I think it would benefit everyone concerned."

Sincerely,
Frances Downey, age 19.

Does Frances' scheme sound radical? Are you all burned up at the thought of what it might do to wages and individual rights? You needn't be. For this plan of "payless" jobs has had the longest work-out in human history . . . and produced the best results.

How did Dad or Granddad—or all their Dads before them—get the experience they needed before striking out on their own? Young America believes that their jobs were waiting for them on silver platters, but that's just so much hooey. They got their experience exactly as Frances is now getting hers, by doing chores, largely unpaid, until such time as they learned what it was all about.

But didn't some people impose on them, take unfair advantage of their ignorance and youth? Of course they did. But what of it? That was part of their education. It toughened their wallop and reduced their hat bands. And was a lot easier to take at 16 than at 26. So, personally, I'm all for Frances and her spunk. And I'll wager that she'll land a lot quicker and higher than the youngsters who sit around waiting for Lady Luck to come calling.

However, that's only one calloused veteran's notion. How's for yours?

Health And Diet

Better Avoid Speedy Reduction.

—By DR. CLENDENING

SEVERAL of my female acquaintances have asked me my opinion of the Harper's Bazaar Nine-Day Wonder Diet revised by Elinor Guthrie Neff. As I analyze it, these are the conclusions.

For breakfast there is always every day half a grapefruit and a cup of black coffee. The grapefruit is about 50 calories and the coffee none.

At lunch there are two tomatoes, about 25 calories apiece), and a chicken sandwich on rye bread with no butter (about 150 calories).

For dinner there is a good-sized steak; how many calories that is, is hard to say because the amount of the steak and especially the amount of fat is not specified. Nothing is said about removing the fat on the steak, which should be done for a real reducing diet. But the steak is at least 150 calories. Besides the steak, you get a stalk of celery (5 calories), tomato and endive salad with no dressing (25 calories) and another half grapefruit (50 calories).

The day's total is 480 calories which should reduce anyone. A reducing diet of 1100 calories a day is in my opinion safer. I don't think anyone should go for any length of time on reducing diets of 300 to 500 calories.

Short Reducing Period.

Furthermore, nine days seems to me too short for satisfactory and healthy reduction It has been proved that when caloric intake is suddenly reduced, one does not lose weight gradually; the weight may remain the same for a week or more, and then there is a sudden water loss and a good deal of weight is lost in one day That is why I prefer a three-week's period or a forty-day Lenten period.

The authors of the nine-day wonder-diet say that meat is the magic that does it. While eating meat you will never feel weak, so they say. The high protein steps up the body metabolism and burns up fat. Of course it is perfectly true that meat has what is called high specific dynamic energy in body economy, but whether it burns fat or not is another question. Meat, however, was the staple of the Hollywood diet, popular a few years ago.

Well Distributed Vitamins.

The diet contains vitamins well distributed, which is a fundamental requirement of any diet. There is Vitamin A in carrots, B in eggs and rye bread, C in tomatoes and grapefruit, D in cheese (?), E in lettuce. Meat iself must have a lot of vitamins, even some we don't know about yet.

I think the diet could justly be criticised on the basis of monotony. Grapefruit and coffee every day for breakfast—a resourceful housekeeper could think of something else than that. And in the first day's diet which I outlined above there was grapefruit also for dessert for dinner, and two tomatoes for lunch and one in the salad for dinner. That is plunging pretty hard on grapefruit and tomatoes.

However these are minor matters and easy to fix. Substitute any citrus fruit for grapefruit and any green vegetable for the tomato and it works just as well. The nine-day-wonder-diet will certainly reduce you provided you follow it to the letter.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Find Fourteen Cases of Sabotage In Probing Defense Plant Damage

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Out of 26 major "incidents of damage" in defense plants last month, Military Intelligence authorities have evidence that fourteen were caused by sabotage. The other twelve were accidents.

Of the fourteen sabotage cases, four were fires and ten were mechanical damage. Two are attributed to Communists; the others to Nazi agents. There is no indication that Communists and Nazis worked together.

Since the outbreak of the Russo-German war, the Communist party line has somersaulted. The current dictum is, no interference with defense output. It is significant that since the Nazi attack on the Soviets there has been a sharp decline in strikes.

However, Intelligence agents report that the party has made no change in its policy of propagandizing soldiers and sailors. This is being pushed as vigorously as before, although with little success. In fact, party generals are so dissatisfied with results that they recently ordered labor unions dominated by Communists to help their campaign by offering their halls as soldier recreation centers.

Japanese Consulates.

ANOTHER significant development in subversive influences relates to the Japanese.

Since the expulsion of the Nazi and Italian consulates, Intelligence officers have found that the Japanese consulates in Los Angeles and Seattle have become the chief clearing houses for espionage on the West Coast. Japanese residents are sending in a constant stream of reports on airplane production, ship movements and other military information.

The recent arrest of two Japanese spies in Los Angeles caused a flurry in Japanese quarters, and a number of Japanese rushed to Washington, apparently to place themselves under the protection of their embassy. Others hotfooted for Mexico, which may mean they are planning to shift spy headquarters to Mexico City.

Note — Falange Espanola de Panama, Fascist organization among Spanish residents in Panama, is threatening those who refuse to join with loss of business permits. The organization claims to have the assurance of the Panamanian government that they will be protected against U. S. interference.

Hull's New Home.

SECRETARY of State Hull, who suffered from nervous exhaustion about the time the Robin Moor was sunk, is now back on the job after more than a month of illness. Returning from a rest at White Sulphur Springs, he walked into one of the most elaborate and comfortable apartments in the entire Capital.

He and Mrs. Hull, who live alone, recently have moved from the Carlton hotel, where they spent the first eight years, into a 14-room apartment in the Wardman Park hotel. It occupies the entire wing of the hotel's fourth floor, and commands a view of Rock Creek and across the entire town to the Capitol.

The great living room measures 50 by 22 feet, and the dining-room is large enough to seat 18 persons. The walls of the library, which Mrs. Hull calls "The Judge's workshop," are covered with autographed photographs of notables Hull has known personally in his long career. (He is approaching his 70th birthday.)

The new quarters have revived Mrs. Hull's enthusiasm for official life. She repeatedly used to tell friends she wanted the secretary to resign. But the other day, after showing a diplomatic friend through the new apartment, she said with a cheery smile, "Now, we have decided not to resign!"

Note—The pantry is stocked with home grown foodstuffs and preserves from down in Tennessee, for the delectation of the secretary.

Goering's Amusements.

MANY stories about Marshal Goering, No. 2 Nazi now reportedly in disgrace, have come out of Paris since the fall of France. One describes him as frequenting the Paris cafes nightly, always bringing a huge roll of French and German money, and spending 100,000 francs in a single evening.

A more recent fad with him is to carry a whip with which he breaks all the light bulbs in the establishment. Then he pays for the damage.

Brother Denny Lewis.

IT WAS a tough day for A. D. ("Denny") Lewis, loud-talking brother of hirsute John L.

Denny is head of the United Construction Workers, largely a paper outfit kept in existence by a $10,000-a-month dole from the CIO cash box. Several months ago, without the prior approval of Phil Murray but with the blessing of Brother John, Denny issued a charter to Minneapolis Local 554 of the General Drivers Union, whose Trotskyite leaders were about to be purged out of the AFL by scrappy teamster boss Dan Tobin.

With Local 554 under his belt, Denny became very cocky and boasted of a big drive on the AFL teamsters. Several of John L's "palace guard" henchmen were sent west to look over the situation.

Then came the deluge.

In Minneapolis a federal grand jury indicted Trotskyite chieftains of Local 554 on charges of advocating overthrow of the U. S. government through armed force. And in Washington, defense authorities entered into an agreement with the AFL building trades union, recognizing them as sole bargaining agency on all defense construction jobs—and leaving Denny's UCW out in the very cold cold.

One of Denny's lieutenants, bewailing the double blow, remarked, "Who says lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place?"

Note — Defense officials are quietly working on a master wage-hour agreement covering the entire aircraft industry, similar to the one negotiated last spring on shipbuilding.

Capital Chaff.

A NEW CAR appeared the other day at the visitor's entrance of the navy department, bearing Diplomatic license 109. The chauffeur said it was his first trip to the navy building. Reason: his boss was Soviet Ambassador Constantin Oumansky. . . . When U. S. troops went to Iceland they fulfilled a prophecy made by publicity agent Eddie Jaffe, who handled the Iceland exhibit at N. Y. world's fair. At that time he got Iceland Commissioner Thor to say, "The people of Iceland hope for the help and sympathy of the United States if the future aggression of foreign powers warrants it."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Those news dispatches telling of bombs falling on Beirut, Syria, make George Abou ben Hamid, sr., wince.

George Abou ben Hamid, sr., was born there.

He used to be the world's champion acrobatic tumbler, and life was good. Why shouldn't it have been? He earned $2.50 a week. If he broke an arm, or tumbled off a 90-foot high dive and cut open his chin, all he had to do was hang around until his wounds healed and go back to tumbling. No war then—it was 1909—and no worries. He had a job with Buffalo Bill.

He was the cat's paw at Young's million-dollar pier at Atlantic City.

Today, that pier has another name. Today, it is Hamid's Million Dollar pier. This pier shoots a third of a mile into the ocean. If you get there before noon, you can get in for 55 cents. Once inside, you can spend the day—all for that 55 cents. You can fish. You can dance. You can see a movie. You can even see a three-ring circus. George Abou ben Hamid, sr., has about everything you can think of on his Million Dollar pier. On July 4th, despite bad weather, 55,000 people went there. If it had been a good day, they couldn't have handled the crowds.

BUT life has changed, and Syria has changed, and George Abou ben Hamid, sr, has changed, too, since his tumbling days. . . . Life and tumbling go in opposite directions. If you are a pyramid man, you start at the top and work down to the bottom. Almost anybody can be top man in a tumbler's pyramid. In life, it's the other way around. You start at the bottom, and bottom, for George Abou ben Hamid, sr, used to be a suburb of Beirut . . . From where he lived, he could smell the Lebanon cedars.

From where he sits today, in his offices high in Rockefeller center—at No. 10 Rockefeller Plaza—he can smell the flowers that Mr. Rockefeller's tenants in the Center have on their roof gardens. . . . He can smell the East River and the breezes from the park. . . . And, when the wind is just right, he can even smell the stockyards at Secaucus, New Jersey.

Today George Abou ben Hamid, sr., is the number one man in the outdoor entertainment world. He owns a circus, several parks, the Million Dollar pier. . . . He books aerial specialists, tight-wire walkers. . . . He books actors and orchestras. . . . He owns tigers, elephants and seals. . . .

He also has a son who has just graduated from Princeton, but instead of going into show business, George Abou ben Hamid, jr., has gone into the Navy. He has a contract with Uncle Sam calling for four years' service.

GEORGE ABOU BEN HAMID, SR., sighs. . . . "That boy. . . . He's in the Navy. . . . He didn't like show business. . . . There's no monkey business about the Navy. . . . Not now." . . . You can see by the pictures on his desk and on the wall how much George, sr., thinks of George, jr.

He thinks, too, that styles in outdoor entertainment change rapidly and that stars today may become passe tomorrow, and vice versa. In the old days, if you were a good acrobat, you had a job for 10 years at a time. . . . Today, you may be tops, and tomorrow someone will come along and make the public forget you.

When that time comes, it is George Abou ben Hamid, sr.'s business to have what the public demands. He has it. Anything you want. Bands, circuses, daring young men on flying trapezes.... Anything. The name and the number are right in the book. Under the H's. . . . Call him up.

A Farmer's Diary

First Line of Defense

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

"AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION is our life line. No nation in time of peace or aggression is greater than its food supply. American farms are producing more than this. They produce stable, clear thinking citizens. They bolster the morale of the nation. They lead us in the determination of national policies.

"The might of America had its beginning in agriculture and today the dominant position of this nation is to be found in the inexhaustible resources of our American soil and the farmers who till it."

IF HENRY FORD hadn't said that first, I might have written it myself. For the last three years and more, I have been trying daily to uphold in print the farm as a sane and satisfying way of life.

This column is not a treatise on farming—it merely tries to record farmers' reactions to new ideas and methods. I have lived on a farm for more than 50 years, by choice. My wife and I are of country stock and our little farm of 56 acres along Honey Creek" in southwestern Richland county, furnishes us and our five young children with a home and with opportunity for progressive change and development.

Big families are the rule out our way. We belong to the class of folks who furnish need for the roundhouses, the school buses and RFD. We have a community club, a Grange, a PTA and a Garden club in our immediate environs. Across the hill we faintly hear the village bells. We live in a four room cottage that is small and bare, but will have to do for awhile yet.

What we try to do is to reduce the life of a plain man and a plain farm family to a column of print. We are simple people and the column is simple, too. It doesn't deal with war or politics; it has nothing to do with big names of stage or society; it tries to stick to common, necessary, imperishable things like waving corn, and bins of wheat and good smoke and stacks of flapjacks in winter time. It doesn't shun frank mention of sweat and dung and hot work in the summer sun; it gets delight from a loaf of homemade bread, or a wobbly calf or the habits of a skunk or the steadiness of the stars.

THIS column welcomes letters of suggestion or criticism or encouragement. We merely present things as they look to us at the time we write. If you see them differently—and better—we will be grateful to have you tell us. Address your letters to Calvin A. Byers, Bellville, Ohio.

Older Women Demand Smart Styles for All Types of Clothes

Designers Present Many Attractive Costumes for 1941 Matrons.

(Inter. Ill. News Writer)

By SUSAN BARDEN

THE day of the little old lady in cap and shawl who used to sit by the fireside and grow old under her grandchildren's very eyes is definitely a thing of the past. Today grandmas are going concerns. They drive cars, go in for careers, do charity work and are as active as the youngest members of the family.

Naturally fashion experts follow the trend and act accordingly. They have designed an entirely new set of clothes for the modern matron. They know that when a woman is perfectly groomed with outfits that are styled right for her type, she's sure to feel and therefore look years younger than she is.

When the mature woman is wearing what is in fashion she feels right and gay and self confident. Put any woman in a hat which is outmoded or let her continue to dress like she was back in 1931 and she'll feel that she's right on the shelf.

The styles that are shown in the four photographs above were created to enhance dignity and poise and at the some time to keep grandmothers young and gay of heart.

The two hats were the invention of Lilly Dache. One is a green illusion cloche with a soaring upturned brim in front banked with roses and greenery. Over all is a matching green veil with salt and pepper dots. It frames the face and winds becomingly around the throat.

The other hat is a flattering sailor in bonbon pink with forward dipping brim. The crown is covered with ruching of pink chenille dotted black veil.

Gray which is so popular this season for both day and evening because it makes such subtle contrast to glowing bronzed skins is particularly effective in this evening gown of chiffon from Bonwit Teller. It has a gathered bodice and its own coat. The jacket is of gray wool with small circles of silver embroidery with rhinestone bead centers sprinkled over it and the detail looks very mist-in-moonlight. The dress with its long attached skirt is made of gray chiffon so when the coat is worn over the gown it gives a floating swirl to the skirt.

The slack suit is something very special, not just because the navy rayon rep is very smart looking, but because of the clever cut. It's called add-an-inch because it adds to the apparent height.

Actually there's all of five inches added from neck to crotch, eliminating the bad fit that troubles so many who have a long torso build. The waist is snugged with a drawstring so that fullness can be pushed toward the back if it is needed there; the jacket length is just right to make hips look slimmer.

Seven Local Girls Attend Convention Meet

Seven young women of the Mansfield chapter, Alpha Pi Sigma sorority, returned recently from attending the national convention which was held in Columbus, 17th to 19th. Delegates were Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, local president, and Miss Grace Crotty. Others present from here were Mrs. Alyce Vahar, Mrs. Thomas Clark, Miss Isabel Kass, Mrs. Donald Hattman and Miss June Ford.

Sessions were held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel with more than 225 delegates and guests in attendance. Mrs. Peg Whitehouse of Canton, national president, was in charge of the business meetings. During the annual election of officers Mrs. Sally Beckwith of Lorain was chosen supreme president for the coming year. It was announced that the 1942 convention would be held at Wheeling, W. Va., with the Bridgeport, O., chapter as hostess.

The next meeting of the local group will be held on Aug. 5 with a picnic supper.

Formal Service Held At New London M. E. Church

NEW LONDON — Against a background of palms and baskets of white gladioli, a beautiful wedding was solemnized Sunday at 2 o'clock in the First Methodist church, when Miss Winona Weston Leech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Leech, of this town, and Gerald Stoyle Fowden, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fowden, also of New London, were united in marriage by the Rev. L. J. Quade of Sandusky, assisted by Rev. W. H. Mitchell, pastor of the church.

A half hour of beautiful organ music, complemented by harp and vocal music, preceded the ceremony. Elwood Rose of Piqua, O., a roommate of the groom, presided at the console of the organ.

Two vocal solos were rendered by Rob Roy Crumrine of Nova, a cousin of the bride. Harp solos were played by Dorothy Ann Hancock.

As the strains of the wedding march sounded, the matron of honor entered, attired in a gown of blue mousseline de soie, made with long sleeves gathered at the neck and wrists. She wore a tiara of deep rose snapdragons and baby- breath, and carried an arm bouquet of the same. A sister of the bride, she was Mrs. Winifred Leech Price of Indianapolis, Ind.

Following on the arm of her father, the bride entered, attired in a gown of white mousseline de soie, which was made the same as that of the matron of honor. She wore a large picture hat of white horsehair, and carried an arm bouquet of white lilies and snapdragons with white shower baby ribbon.

Mr. Fowdon was attended by John Humphreys of Delaware. Rev. Howard Patrick of Spencer and D. B. Barnes, jr., acted as ushers.

After the ceremony, the wedding party retired to the assembly rooms of the church where a reception was held. A three-tier wedding cake centered the lace-covered table. Beautiful baskets of flowers decorated the room.

The mothers of both the bride and groom were attired in blue-flowered white chiffon and wore shoulder corsages.

In attendance from Mansfield were George Fetterman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fetterman.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, July 23.

A MODERATELY successful day is read from the lunar as well as mutual aspects of the ruling planets. There should be a marked tendency toward stability and security through hard work, sound plans and objectives, in which large corporations, fraternities, political or other organizations may be found cooperative. Approach these with finesse and strategy rather than abruptness and force. The intuitions, imagination and inner subtleties may prove safe and dependable.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of interesting developments which should culminate in much stability of the fortunes, position and personal prestige. This largely because of merit, industry, and sound ambitions coming to the attention of large organizations, of a political, industrial, diplomatic or even cultural nature. Seek such cooperation and recognition, using subtlety, tact, persuasion and personal magnetism rather than force or direct approach.

A child born on this day should have stability of character, sound mentality and purpose, as well as keen insight and inner vision, fitting it for a secure and worthy career. It may accumulate property or enjoy inheritance.

Shipboard Romance

Sylvia Taylor

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XIV.

It seemed to Doris that her life had begun anew. Another start from the moment Jimmy had asked her to marry him. She should not have been surprised at his proposal, yet it seemed so unexpected to hear the actual words that it left her breathless. She had not thought beyond her love for him, but now the future took on a new meaning.

"Jimmy!" she cried weakly.

"Aren't you going to answer me?"

"Yes," Doris said softly, turning radiant eyes to his. "You already know the answer, darling!"

The lounge was crowded with chattering passengers. Doris and Jimmy found an unoccupied couch, and he held her hand tightly in his.

"I'll have to marry you in order to see you alone," Jimmy complained.

They laughed and their eyes caressed each other.

"And they say shipboard romances never work out," he teased.

She wished he had not said that. Theirs had come so close to wreckage, she could not joke about it. The thought of May Whittier and George Malone still lurked in the back of her mind. She wished she could tell Jimmy, but she could not bear to inject a bitter note into their new-found happiness.

They were so absorbed in each other they did not hear May Whittier until she spoke a second time.

"I said," May repeated, "How about a game of bridge? I've got a fourth."

Jimmy rose. Doris had never seen him look so young, so completely happy. "To heck with the bridge game," he said to May, "Doris and I are engaged."

Instantly Doris knew it had been a mistake to tell May. She looked at the other girl standing before her, her slender figure draped in a black and white evening gown, her green eyes glittering. Only by the smallest flicker of expression did May give herself away before she said, "How wonderful! Congratulations!"

Jimmy seemed blissfully unconscious of his error. "We'll be married in New York as soon as the ship docks."

It was then that Doris saw George Malone come up to May.

May took his arm gaily. "Here's our fourth. But how about having a drink instead—to celebrate."

Jimmy glanced at Malone with disapproval. "I believe we've met before."

Malone bowed. "That's right, and Miss Newton, too." He turned to May with pretended surprise. "And what are we celebrating?"

"These two are going to be married," May informed him.

"Really!" George Malone said deliberately. "Allow me to congratulate you—both!"

Why would it have to turn out this way? Doris wished she had had a chance to ask Jimmy to keep the news a secret, but it was too late now. He felt no undercurrents as he said, "The champagne's on me," and led the way into the bar.

It was a strangely incongruous party that sat around the square wooden table with the deep leather seats. May said little, smoked a great deal, and silently lifted her glass. She rested her red head on the back of the seat and gazed thoughtfully, shrewdly at Doris.

George Malone, on the other hand, appeared affable and friendly. Doris saw that he was trying to draw Jimmy out, trying to gain his confidence. She hated Malone with such intensity that she could not bear to look at him.

Outside they could hear the angry rush of water, the wild splash of waves. "Seems as if we might be in for a little storm," Malone said. "It's not uncommon this time of the year."

The ship quivered a little as it met each roll and seemed to brace itself to meet the next. May rose suddenly. "I can't take it," she said. "See you all tomorrow."

Doris wondered if she was the only one who had thought May was not referring to the weather.

George Malone left shortly after May had hurried away.

"You know it's queer he should be on this ship," Jimmy commented. "I don't like him. I never did. Has he been bothering you this trip?"

"Silly!" Doris said hastily. "Let's not think about him now."

The bar was deserted. "We're the only good sailors on board," Jimmy told her, moving closer.

"At least we're alone," Doris said.

"Don't you think I'm not going to take advantage of it!" He leaned over and kissed her quickly.

"I'm so happy," Doris sighed. "It seems like a dream. I'm afraid I'll wake and be back in Detroit without you."

"Not a chance, darling!" he assured her, draining his glass. "And by the way, we'd better make our plans right now. I don't want any delay after we dock."

"Do you have to go back to Chicago right after we're married?"

"Not necessarily. What would you like to do?"

"But your work!" Doris protested.

He grinned. "What work? Grandfather left everything in good hands. The office takes care of everything. I hardly ever go around. Wouldn't know what to do if I did."

"That's a shame," Doris scolded. "What have you been doing with yourself all these years?"

Jimmy shrugged. "Playing — and," his blue eyes darkened, "getting married to the wrong girl."

"Don't think about that now."

"You can't imagine," Jimmy said seriously, "how I felt to know that I meant nothing to a woman but a bankbook."

"You're through with all that," she reminded him. "This is a new start."

Instantly his gay mood returned. "Don't tell me you're going to make me go to work!"

"I certainly am!" Doris threatened. "That's exactly what you're going to do."

"Okay, sweet, maybe you're right. I haven't accomplished much living the other way."

Doris had another thought. "What will your family think about your getting married again?"

"They're in Honolulu," Jimmy said, apparently considering that a sufficient reply.

Doris did not feel very reassured but she put the thought of his family's displeasure out of her mind along with all the other unpleasantness that she had determined to forget.

"You know," Jimmy said suddenly, "I have a feeling I've seen this guy Malone before."

Doris was silent, listening to the whistle of the wind as it bore down upon the ship.

"Funny," Jimmy mused. "I can't place him."

Doris, too, had felt that she had seen George Malone before. There was something disturbingly familiar in that square face, the sharp eyes.

"More champagne?" Jimmy inquired.

"No thanks! I'm not used to it," Doris said, laughing. "I'm already walking on pink clouds."

"That's not champagne, sweetheart. That's love."

"Whatever it is," Doris said rapturously, "it's wonderful!"

The night continued to be rough and stormy. Doris lay awake for hours, but it was happiness, not the weather that made her sleepless. She liked the motion of the ship, it seemed to rock her bed like a cradle. Ten days! Ten days and she would be in New York. Ten days and she would be Jimmy's wife. Maybe dreams did come true after all.

The following days were so peaceful that Doris ceased to be suspicious or afraid. May Whittier avoided her completely and spoke only briefly and impersonally when they were in their cabin. Doris began to think that she had misjudged her. George Malone, too, seemed through molesting her. She saw him in the dining room, in the bar, and on deck, but he gave her only the briefest of nods. Could he have given up his scheme in the face of her coming marriage?

Life was now serene and perfect. Doris congratulated herself upon not having told her troubles to Jimmy. How useless it would have been to cause a scene. Things had apparently straightened themslves out without any help from her.

The ship cut steadily and easily through the tranquil waters of the Caribbean. The sun set in dramatic splendor, and the moon rose like a queen. Jimmy was constantly at her side. Her love, her pride in him grew each day. She had thought it was impossible to love him more, yet every minute the realization of their approaching marriage filled her with new wonder and devotion.

If West leads the diamond 9, won by the A, the declarer takes the spade K, ruffs a spade with the heart K and finesses the heart J, why should West not take the trick in his effort to defeat 6 Hearts?

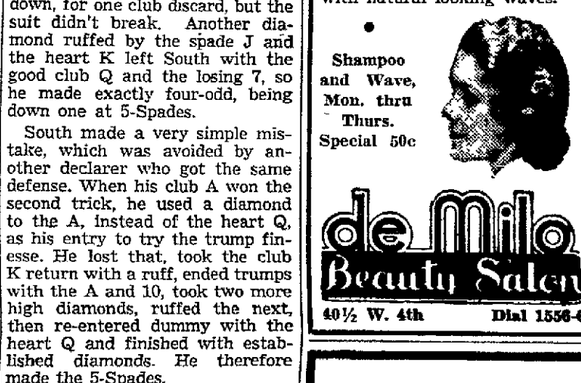
SAVE YOUR RE-ENTRY

IF A PLAYER sees two certain entries into the dummy, it may appear offhand that he can use either one first, saving the other for later use. But sometimes it makes a vast difference which order he selects for them. If one of them is in a long suit, which he hopes to establish, it is usually better to employ that one first, so the other can be available if the suit doesn't break well and he has to give up or ruff a trick in it before it is set up.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1♦	Pass	1♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	5♠

West led the heart 3 against one duplicate declarer on this deal. East won with the A and switched to his club J, won by the A. Seeing a chance to discard a lot of losers on those diamonds, South decided to drop trumps and run them. So he went to the dummy with the heart 4 to the Q, led the spade Q and let it go through to the K. West returned his club K, ruffed by the 3, and South settled the trump situation with the 4 to the A, then the 7 to the 10.

Three high diamonds were laid down, for one club discard, but the suit didn't break. Another diamond ruffed by the spade J and the heart K left South with the good club Q and the losing 7, so he made exactly four-odd, being down one at 5-Spades.

South made a very simple mistake, which was avoided by another declarer who got the same defense. When his club A won the second trick, he used a diamond to the A, instead of the heart Q, as his entry to try the trump finesse. He lost that, took the club K return with a ruff, ended trumps with the A and 10, took two more high diamonds, ruffed the next, then re-entered dummy with the heart Q and finished with established diamonds. He therefore made the 5-Spades.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I'll tell Mary that, the first second I can talk to her without exciting comment," Nancy Carew said. Then she looked at me hesitantly.

"Don't be too hard on her!" she pleaded.

"I won't use a stick any bigger than my thumb," I quoted, but there was more exasperation than whimsy in my tone. I was more nearly angry with Mary than I had thought possible.

"I'll be content with that," Nancy Carew said, as she went out. "I agree with you that she does need a wigging."

Leaves Note for Mary.

I closed the door behind her, and then, telling myself that, no matter what happened, I would not return to the party, I wrote a hasty note to Mary.

"Mary dear," it ran. "If I am asleep, please wait five minutes before awakening me; but only five, remember! This is vital. Love, Aunt Madge."

Then I went into the bedroom, changed my gown to a kimono, slipped off my shoes, snapped off the light, and almost literally dived into the bed.

Since I had come into the hotel, I had talked to both Olga and Nancy Carew at their earnest request, because they feared for Mary: had gone through a most terrifying experience with the bandit searching for Mary's letter, and had averted for the time being Noel's murderous wrath against Stephen Redfield.

Wakened by Mary.

I remembered nothing more until I came back to waking again with Mary's fingers gently pressing my wrist — the shock proof method of waking which Katherine has taught us all.

"If you weren't 'She-who-must-be-obeyed,' I wouldn't have wakened you until Grandpa Spencer knocked on the door," she said, and the quizzical look which accompanied Dicky's familiar, gibing quotation emphasized her patent reluctance to disturb me.

"I feel wide-awake now," I said. "How long have I slept?"

"If you went 'nighty-night'"—Mary's affected utterance was highly amusing — "as soon as Nancy Carew came back to the party, you've been out twenty minutes."

"I don't know what's on the alleged mind until Grandpa Spencer arrives," she said, "but it's a cinch it's either talk or action. If it's talk, you certainly can orate from your pillows as well as away from them; and if it's action, which can possibly be delegated under supervision, I'm the best little understrapping henchman you ever saw. Just watch me 'hench'! That's all I ask you. Just watch me!"

It was hard to keep myself in the disciplinary mood I wanted for her, in the face of her raillery and her loving solicitude for me. But I knew that I had very little time before my father's arrival, and I felt very strongly that there were things which I must say to her in the interval.

"I'm sorry, dearest," I said firmly, "but I must get up. There is nothing for me to do, but there are things I must say to you, and I cannot possibly talk from here."

Mansfield Plays 3 to 3 Tie In 14 Innings at Findlay

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Dropping from this page of the daily batting averages of the Mansfield club, at the request of Braves Skipper Alex Clowson two weeks ago, appears to have had the desired effect of taking the pressure off the boys, and improving their hitting.

It seems that while the averages were being carried daily, well-meaning fans, wishing to make conversation with the athletes, would greet them in this wise:

"I see you slipped a bit today. You'll have to get in there tonight and get yourself a few blows."

* * *

And the Braves, most of whom are not yet of draft age, and can't be expected to have the balance of more experienced players, became a bunch of worry-warts.

They were pressing at the plate, and sulking in their tepee when they failed to hit. Harmony was flying out the window, and close games were being lost for lack of a punch at the platter.

Then the averages were dropped and the boys started smacking that apple. They found themselves in the midst of a seven-game winning streak, and they got the idea they couldn't be beaten.

If running averages is a jinx,
We'll be silent as the Sphinx.

But I don't think it will jinx them now to know that after Sunday's twin-win over Findlay, the Braves had three 300-hitters, and three more so close there wasn't much difference.

Bill Reinka was clouting a lusty .318, Boss Clowson was smacking a neat .316, and Eddie Mutryn was right on the .300 dot.

Showing the most improved form at the dish was Bill Salem who boosted his mark to .298, while right behind him were Bobby Ankrum with .293 and Graf Moore with .290.

Things were also happening in the extra-base hit department.

Mutryn clouted three home runs to boost his total to 14 and tie with Johnny Cindric of Lima for the league lead. Tim Mangan went on a circuit clouting spree with five, to bring his total to six, and took second place on the club in this specialty.

Bill Salem rapped out three triples for a total of five and first place, just ahead of Mangan who has four three-baggers.

Bobby Ankrum still leads in doubles with 21, but Harry Siegbert and Graf Moore each connected for four of the two-ply shots, and Siegbert is now second with 16, and Moore is tied with Mangan for third with 12.

The Braves no longer look like dubs,
They're up and swinging those war clubs.

Angott Bows to New Puncher

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — They were calling Ray Robinson the lightweight division's "clean-up hitter" today as plans were started to match Harlem's skinny skyrocket with Chicago's Davey Day in the next step on his sleep-making parade.

The dusky dynamiter from New York punched out a slashing, tough, but clean-cut decision over one-half of the world lightweight championship in Sammy Angott before a crowd of 14,500 fans in a non-title tussle at Shibe park last night, and immediately the older inhabitants dubbed him "the next champ."

SLAPS HOMER WITH BASES LOADED TO BEAT COALS

A home run in the eighth with bases loaded by Tappan's Patterson sent the N. and W. Coals to their first defeat 8-3 in a Commercial league tilt last night.

Botzer sparked the losers' attack, getting two out of three. Mabee led the winning Tappan's club with two out of four. Both clubs connected with four safe bingles.

17-Game Job Given Bob Feller

Shoots For Over 30 Mark In Remaining Games.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Bob Feller starts off today on a "17-game plan" designed to bost his victories for the season well over the 30 mark and keep the Indians within range of the lead.

His nomination to hurl the opener of the Yankee series marks the first of 17 contests the young fireballer will pitch between now and Oct. 1, barring injury.

With Manager Roger Peckinpaugh adhering rigidly to the policy of calling on his ace every fourth day, the check of the rain-revised American league schedule shows Bob will face Detroit four times, Washington and Philadelphia three times, New York, Boston and St. Louis twice and Chicago once.

So far he has won 19 and lost four—the Browns beating him twice and the Yanks and White Sox once.

Continuation of the present pace would bring the 22-year-old Iowan 33 victories against seven setbacks. Such figuring excludes the possibility of additional triumphs in relief roles or starting oftener than every fourth day.

Atley Donald, who hasn't lost a game to Cleveland since he joined the Yankees, was slated to duel with Bob in the opener of the Tribe's eastern invasion.

A week ago the big question in the American league was whether the New York Yankees would sew up the pennant in their remaining games in the west. They did.

Now the question is whether they will turn the "race" in to an utter rout or let the vanquished drag along in pain a while longer.

The Bombers won 11 out of their 13 contests in a triumphant swing through the western half of the circuit and have won 34 of their past 40 in a tremendous spurt that has dwarfed the efforts of all the other clubs.

As the spotlight swung back to the east today the Yankees were 14 games in front of the Boston Red Sox, 15½ ahead of the Chicago White Sox and 17½ on top o fthe Detroit Tigers, the defending champions.

* * *

Only the Cleveland Indians, seven games back in second place, have even the remotest hope of overtaking the pacemakers. Cleveland fans chief hope is that the Yanks will trip over a hurdle named Bob Feller and that they will have a chance to pounce on the New Yorkers while they are down.

Feller was to go to the mound today in quest of his 20th victory.

He has beaten the Yanks three times and lost once to them this year.

The Brooklyn Dodgers stayed behind yesterday to clean up some unfinished business in the only game of the day in either loop. But instead of improving their position at the top of the senior circuit the Dodgers dropped an 8-3 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates and headed away from home last night a chastened and diconcerted outfit.

This was Brooklyn's fourth defeat in five games and cut the Dodgers' first place margin over the St. Louis Cardinals to one game.

Lights Boost Grid Receipts

Payment on New Plant Leaves School In Red.

Installation of lights for night football at Mansfield Senior high school last year boosted the school's football receipts to a record high of $8,338, but the school finished the year with a $690 deficit in the athletic fund, a financial report to the board of education showed last night.

Board members pointed out, however, that the deficit was the result of a $2,772 payment on the new lighting plant which cost $8,300 when it was installed last summer. The school's athletic department still owes $4,600 on the lights.

The Massillon game, which drew a record crowd in Mansfield last fall, poured $3,444 into the athletic fund, more than all the other games combined, the report showed.

Other game receipts included Akron West, $894; Cambridge, $634; Elyria, $676; New Philadelphit, $757, and Sandusky, $514. Also adding to the football receipts were season tickets amounting to $1,045 and activity tickets which produced $893.

Basketball and track, as usual, lost money for the school. Basketball expenses exceeded the "take" by $114, while the track team finished the season $73 "in the red."

* * *

The athletic department opened the season with a deficit of $132. With more home games on the football schedule this fall, the prospects are good for a reduction in the $690 deficit carried over from last season, H. W. Arlin, president of the board of education, said.

Take Second Half League Crown

The Congregational soft ball club took the second half church league title last night as they subdued St. Matthew's 23-4, while elsewhere in the league, first half champions St. John's crushed St. Luke's 28-4, and the Lutherans defeated the Baptist club 20-5.

The Congs were off to a 14-run lead before St. Matthew's plated a man in the last half of the fourth as they copped the second half crown.

Gross, Augustine and G. Uhlich connected with homers in the St. Luke's debacle as St. John's batsmen pushed runs over in every inning but the sixth. Floro and Gross topped St. John's percentages with four out of six apiece.

C. Herrick led the Lutheran assault as he garnered three out of four to lead the victors' 13-hit barrage. Condon was the only Baptist batter to take more than one safe bingle, slapping two out of three.

Entries In Net Joust Lagging

Fee Players Lead In City Tennis Lists.

TIME is growing short for filing of entries in the News-Journal Mansfield City Tennis tournament with the deadline set for Thursday at 6 p. m., and to date the number of entries received does not begin to represent the interest which is claimed for the court sport in Mansfield.

An encouraging feature of the entries received thus far is the fact that the entry fee paying men's divisions, singles and doubles, lead the free divisions by a wide margin.

Some tennis enthusiasts feared that charging of the small entry fee of $1 for men's singles and 50 cents each for men's doubles for the purchase of balls for these divisions would slow down the entries for these divisions of the tournament, but this has been far from the case.

Instead the divisions with free entry, the women's, mixed doubles and junior tournaments have been lagging far behind, and unless more interest is shown in these divisions, some may be dropped for lack of contestants.

This morning seven entries had been received for men's singles, Thornton Moore, Bob Ellison, Lowell Bourns, Watty Slabaugh, Bob Larson, Bob Enos, and Burton Decker.

Moore and Ellison, Slabaugh and Bourns were entered as doubles teams while Larson and Enos were entered for doubles, with Larson naming Bob Meese as his partner, and Enos naming Bob Spear.

Enos was entered in mixed doubles with Lois Shuey, women's singles champion, while Decker indicated he would play mixed doubles and doubles if teammates can be found.

Anne Arron, runner-up for the city women's singles championship for the past two years, this morning filed her entry for this event again, the first entry in women's singles. She also named Bob Spear for her partner in mixed doubles.

Only Charley Franzen and Gene Miller are entered in junior singles thus far, while junior women's singles are without entries.

In the past, tennis players in Mansfield have held back their tournament entries until the last minute and they appear to be making no exception to the rule this year. But they'd create more interest, and have a bigger and better tournament if those who know they were going to play would file their entries early.

Colonels Bow In Slugfest

Last Place Brewers Show Appreciation.

(By Associated Press)

The Milwaukee Brewers, who have won only two of their last 11 games, apparently need bigger and better celebrations for their ball park.

The fans at Milwaukee staged a "Charley Grimm" appreciation program last night and the Brewers responded by crushing the second-place Louisville Colonels under a 23-hit, 17 to 8 score.

* * *

Grimm, the former Chicago Cubs coach who took over the managerial post when the Milwaukee club changed hands a month ago, even had a hand in the slaughter himself. Jovial Charley played two innings at first base and got a single in the second inning during the Brewers' big six-run onslaught.

The loss dropped Louisville a game and a half back of Minneapolis, whose game with Columbus was rained out.

Indianapolis rolled merrily on toward first division with a 2 to 1 victory over fading Kansas City and Toledo won an uphill battle from St. Paul, scoring two runs in the ninth for a 6 to 5 triumph.

Play Here Tomorrow Night

GEORGE SUNKER DIZ KIRKENDALL

Here are two of the famous Ferguson State Auditors softball team of Columbus who will meet a Mansfield all-star team at the Fairground Wednesday night at 8:30 under the lights. George Sunker is a handy man, being equally at home on first base, in the outfield, or on the hurling mound. He'll not need to go to the mound, however, with Diz Kirkendall firing his smoke-ball at the Mansfield club. Kirkendall has over 75 no-hit games to his credit, and is ranked as one of the best softball hurlers in national softball ranks. Joe Lesch, manager of the all-star team, was signing up players for the Mansfield club today in hopes of presenting a strong enough lineup to give the visitors a battle.

Old Timer Writes Letter Boosting Young Braves

Sports Editor, News-Journal:

I have had the urge for some time, and since the Braves are playing such a wonderful brand of baseball as they are now playing, I can no longer resist the urge to say a word in their favor. I am sure that the general public does not realize what they are missing.

The writer sees many games every year in Cleveland. After debating whether to see the double header at Cleveland Stadium Sunday or the one at the Fairground, I stayed home, and to my great delight the Braves won two hair-raisers.

Our team is made up of the finest bunch of youngsters that I have ever seen on one club. Not a rowdy nor a sulker in the entire outfit. The spirit of comradeship from manager to bat-boy is most gratifying. There is no indication that the team is bossed by the manager. They all work together, and I am sure that Alex Clowson is the right man in the right place.

My prediction is that many of the boys will go on up and within a very few years will become headliners. This will remind us oldsters of the days when Mansfield developed many outstanding stars for the majors, such as Ed Delehanty, Jack Kelty, Bob Allen, Honus Wagner, Miller Huggins, Charlie Bohn, Petie Summers, Milt (Buck) West, Al Berger, Frank Bird, Jeff Holmquist, Carl McVey, Red McMillan, Johnny Daly, Goat Channell, and many others.

I am going to save this year's roster of the Braves, and I am sure that before many seasons have passed we'll see their names in headlines and will be able to say: "They played their first professional ball in Mansfield."

It would seem that our business men should be more interested in baseball, just as they were back in the 80's when the Tri-State league was organized here, and our mayor, George Clugston, was the first president. In 1889 Mansfield won the championship with a percentage of over .700.

My old friend Cy Young never tires of telling of how the Mansfield team got to him for 46 hits in the first two games he pitched against them. He says: "I never could pitch past them big bats of them sluggers." This is the same Cy Young who made an unbeatable record of games won in the major leagues.

In one year Mansfield sent seven players to the big show, and the best part of it is they all made good.

* * *

We can do it again if we will get behind our club and boost as we never have before. Increased attendance is necessary. Otherwise the management will lose money, and we may not have a team another year. So let's go.

H. A. Albrecht.

Sees Seabright King As National Champ

SEABRIGHT, N. J.—(AP)—In the expert opinion of Bobby Riggs, the player who wins the men's singles championship in the 54th annual Seabright tennis tournament will go on to capture the national title at Forest Hills—and the little Chicagoan aims to do just that.

Bobby figures Kovacs again will be the toughest man in the field, and ranks Frankie Parker and national champ Don McNeill right behind the clowning Californian though seeded order is McNeill, Riggs, Parker, Kovacs. However, there's no chance of another Kovacs-Riggs final, since they're in the same half of the draw.

Riggs, who won handily yesterday over J. Upshur Moorhead of Rumson, N. J., was the only domestic seeded player to see action in the men's field. The other three, who drew first-round byes, were slated to start today. McNeill against Larry Dee, Parker against Ed Amark and Kovacs against Henry Batjer.

Braves Seek Eleventh Home Victory Tonight

Findlay Ties Score In Ninth; Midnight Ends 14-Frame Battle.

MANSFIELD'S hustling Braves, held to a 3 to 3 tie last night at Findlay in 14 innings, resume their attack on a home-game victory record tonight at the Fairground when they tangle with the Tiffin Mud Hens.

The Braves have now won 10 straight games on the home lot, and they'll be out to make it 11 in tonight's tilt with the Hens. Either Rudy Okleson or Pat Patterson will draw the mound assignment.

For the second straight road trip, the Braves found themselves embroiled in an overtime struggle last night.

Last Saturday night they dropped a 1-0 decision at Fostoria on an umpire's questionable decision after Pat Patterson limited the Birds to two hits in 11 innings.

Last night Findlay, after being held to two hits in eight frames by Chuck Byers, got to the Chucker for a pair of bingles in the ninth to tie the score at 3 to 3 and send the game to 14 innings.

Jim Coleman took up the mound burden in the tenth and blanked the Oilers with three hits in the next five frames, while the Braves were getting to Whitey Cassel for seven blows in the same five stanzas but without being able to bunch them for the one run needed to win.

Braves At Home.
Tuesday—Tiffin
Friday—Lima
Sunday—Fremont (two games)

The game was called at midnight.

Byers' stuff was blazing in there with so much on it that it was out of control much of the time, Chuck walking 12 batters and fanning 17 in his nine-inning stretch. Coleman also walked two batters, hit one, and fanned three in five innings.

* * *

Meanwhile Cassel had a very good prayer mixed up with his assortment of mound offerings. He walked only three men, but gave up 13 hits, and fanned five.

Mansfield had 13 left on bases, less than one per inning, while Findlay had no less than 19 stranded on the paths.

Former Ashland Pro Takes Poland Open

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)—Temperamental Reggie Myles, former Ashland pro, returned to his pro job at Cleveland's Columbia Hills course today lugging another Poland open golf trophy.

The diminutive sharpshooter posted a six-under-par 35-35-32—102 to become the first champion to repeat in the four-year history of the $500 tournament.

Myles staged a torrid finish after losing his temper on the 21st hole. Angered at his failure to come out of a sand trap he broke his sand wedge over his knee. He then shot four birdies and an eagle to beat a field of 100 by three strokes.

Jack Thompson of Youngstown, Rader Jewitt of Butler, Pa., Frank Metzger of Cuyahoga Falls and Parks were tied for second at 105.

MOORE INJURED

Graf Moore joined the Braves' hospital list last night when he injured a knee sliding into third base in the 11th inning. Bobby TeStruth moved over to Moore's place at short and Manager Alex Clowson took over TeStruth's second base spot. Moore is expected to be out of the game for some time.

STOCK MARKET BOILS OVER AS RISE CONTINUES

Ticker Tape Falls Behind For First Time Since December of Last Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market today boiled over as heavy dealings pushed up leaders fractionally in the extension of Monday's sharp advance.

For a few minutes after the opening the ticker tape was late as blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares pressed the recording machinery. It was the first time the tape had been behind since Dec. 14, last year. The pace soon slowed and, near the second hour, a little profit selling was in evidence.

Word that RFC had taken a huge amount of British-owned American securities off the market as collateral for a $425,000,000 loan was helpful, brokers said.

Some market encouragement was derived from the federal reserve compilation of member banks in 101 cites for the week ended July 16 disclosing an increase in outstanding credit to a new record high of $28,577,000,000.

Attention was given the summary of the commerce department estimating iron and steel exports for May aggregated $35,346,329 for 409,840 gross tons, smallest in 13 months.

JAPS REAFFIRM AXIS ALLIANCE

Foreign Minister Says Pact Remains Basis of Nation's Policy.

war with China and "preparations for any eventualities resulting from a possible Russian collapse."

The newspapers prominently displayed allegations that China had concluded a secret agreement with Great Britain and Free France under which China would attack French Indo-China.

It was alleged that at the same time Great Britain would attack Indo-China from the South.

The allegations were published in the form of a Domei news agency dispatch from Hong Kong.

Domei said Chinese troops in the southern provinces of Kwangsi and Yunnan already were preparing to invade Indo-China from the north and Britain was reported to have started preparations to transport "native" troops to southern Indo-China.

(Japan's sponsorship and direction of negotiations which resulted in the signing of a Thailand-French Indo-China peace treaty last May 9 left no doubt that Japan regards both these countries as definitely within her sphere of influence and outside that of any other power.

(There have been increasingly persistent reports that Japan intended to increase its domination over Indo-China soon, by negotiation or force, and Hong Kong reported only yesterday that a convoy of 15 Japanese troops transports and supply ships had passed down the Canton river Sunday and turned southward toward Indo-China.)

A Domei dispatch from Hanoi, French Indo-China, said that Great Britain had been trying to prevent Indo-China and Thailand from exporting their key materials to Japan and that Britain had made certain economic demands on Thailand. The United States was reported to be co-operating with Britain, the dispatch added, and to have made economic demands of its own on Thailand.

Halt Non-Military Traffic In Orient

SHANGHAI — (U.P.) — Japanese military authorities have virtually halted all non-military traffic in northern China, Manchukuo and Japan, reliable informants asserted today, because of wide scale mobilization movements as part of which many troops are being sent northward toward the Siberian frontier.

Foreigners are unable to obtain passport visas to Manchukuo due to military movements by railroad. Japanese steamships heading northward from the Shanghai area are refusing passengers.

Foreign military observers report that the Japanese are heavily strengthening their Kwantung army—the army in Manchukuo—with artillery and that infantry and other troops are moving northward.

Maj. Kunio Akiyama, Japanese army spokesman, said that all Japanese reserves are being called up in the Shanghai area in order to strengthen Japan's forces in China — which he estimated now number 1,500,000 effectives "for all eventualities."

BOOM AIRPORT BUILDING PLAN

JAC Announces Plan For Fund-Raising Drive; Structures Already Going Up.

will be so designed that it can be converted into an aviation country club after the pilot training emergency is concluded.

Council will be asked at its next regular meeting to approve the plans so construction can be started immediately, the airport manager explained.

Army air corps officers Saturday surveyed the port, taking inventory of available facilities. The survey will be forwarded to army engineers and air corps headquarters.

The survey made by Capt. H. E. Klemp and Lieut. D. M. Cutting of Selfridge field, Mich., included hangar facilities; mechanical facilities, water supply, condition of runways and buildings, and possible location for future buildings.

The J.A.C. drive for funds will start next Thursday at a meeting called for the purpose of devising ways and means to raise the funds.

E. L. Balyeat, chairman of the JAC airport committee said it is hoped that sufficient funds can be raised to provide the field with three 3,500-foot runways.

Representatives of all civic organizations, women's clubs, labor unions and the board of directors of both the JAC and the Senior chamber have been invited along with the general public to attend the meeting in Room 501 of the Farmers Bank building.

Three major airlines have evidenced interest in Mansfield's airfield, Balyeat said, and have promised to investigate possibilities of providing regular service if the field is improved. The JAC surveys show that the only immediate needs to bring the port up to standard are the three runways. All moneys spent on the port so far Balyeat claims, have been used in draining projects. Therefore, the surveys show that not much further work along this line will be necessary.

Plans now call for raising the necessary money either by a bond issue or by popular subscription. The final decision between the ways will be made by the meeting.
